

the air was damp with Spring.
I looked after the Chickens and then put out the Tippers and Highflyers. They are fairly out of shape because they have not been out for weeks, but some were flying well. I went about my poultry chores, and then I heard the unmistakable sound of pigeons taking off in a panic—a Cooper's Hawk was the source of the disturbance. He (the hawk) was on the trail of one of the white Tippers. Miraculously the Tippler got away and the hawk did not make a second attempt. Rites of Spring. When everything settled down from the Cooper's Hawk, & suddenly realized that there were four or five small Robins in the top of one of the Red Cherry trees up by the barn. The first ones of Spring.

 These early arrivals are the true pioneers and like all pioneers they will have to confront hardships (snow, ice, freezing conditions, etc.) — but the strong will make it. What a pleasure it is to see and to hear these harbingers of Spring.

Next will be the Song Sparrow:
 they have the habit of sitting in the morning sun and singing their hearts out — and what a song it is.

at mid-day today, DWP II and I cleaned out the outer hall area of the hen house. I had the large wheel barrow and he had his small toy wheelbarrow. We had a grand time and I took three or four photographs of the event.

Grinnell College and SUNY: Potsdam have both hired someone for their openings in French. I thought that I had a fairly good shot at the SUNY: Potsdam position. I guess not. No one wants to hire a white male these days: only women and members of minority groups are getting jobs in academia. What a tragedy!

2/27/92 - 11 A.M.

In an effort to posit some long-term financial stability in my life (in the absence of any positive feedback from the first - full of application for work that I have pending here there and partout), I went into "officemax" on the Carbondale/Scranton highway yesterday at mid-day & turned in a completed employment application for part-time work. If it turns out that they need someone and they contact me, the wages will be pitiful (no more than minimum wage very probably) and the work will be hardly more than general around the store help, but in the absence of any other prospects on the horizon, SRP has no choice. I am convinced, of course, that the management will very quickly realize my great utility to them and their store and my status (financial and staff) will move upward. It's either that or I must win the lottery. I am now engaged on a project to buy five $1.00 lottery tickets every week for 20 weeks in a row. It's as good an investment as any other. The project began on February 5, 1992 and will continue for the 20 weeks following that date.

2/28/92 - 9 P.M.

The infertility problem may be solved in the hen house. The Silver-laced Wyandotte pullet has 2 fertile standard eggs that are due to hatch on 3/6; the Golden-laced Wyandotte pullet has 4 that are due out on 3/14; the Malay hen, I think, three fertile eggs. I have no idea what hen laid these fertile eggs so it will be very exciting to see the chicks if the eggs hatch. I am very anxious to get some Black Orpingtons and some Partridge Rocks. I put 35 more eggs - mostly standards - in the incubator tonight and will continue to incubate all of my standards' eggs for at least 2 more months. The 35-40 chicks that I now have are doing beautifully; it is a constant Shuffling about process that goes on when I need more pens for chicks, with or without setting hens. It's an old game and I am fairly good at playing it. It's a wonderful stimulus to cull heavily and broadly and that I do. There are a couple of hens that are hatching chicks tonight and by Sunday I will have to get them set up in pens. Fortunately both hens are setting in pens that can become chick pens very easily. I have to move the 14 Rhode Island Reds up to the barn by Tuesday, as I am expecting 25 chicks from Tennessee on 3/4-5 or 6. To be sure, I am not complaining, as I do enjoy all this poultry madness a great deal.

2/29/92 - 5 P.M.

Full sun through the window over the drive to the garage; 10°F, but tomorrow in March 1st so Spring is ascendant. The best 8 months of the year for beautiful weather are ahead and that is a cause for dancing in the fields. A bantam Self Blue old English Game hen and a bantam DBR American Game are finishing up their hatches today; the former will end up with three of her own chicks and the latter with two bantam Black Wyandottes and a Self Blue<sup>0.5</sup> Game Bantam. Devoted a fair amount of time today to "mes chères poules" — cleaned all cages and then the coop. Drove to the Justice Corner Feed Store after lunch and brought

JOHN BUBERNIAK -- Nonbusiness bad debt

S. Robert Powell guaranteed a $5,000 loan (#36605) taken out by John Buberniak from the Pioneer American Bank, Carbondale, PA, on June 22, 1989. Powell did so with his Certificate of Deposit (#10037278) in the Pioneer American Bank, Carbondale, PA. Powell did so with the understanding and agreement of Buberniak that Powell would realize a profit for guaranteeing the loan and that Buberniak, accordingly, would pay Powell for the use of his money after Buberniak had paid off the loan with the bank. On May 31, 1991, Buberniak defaulted on the aforementioned loan and Powell's Certificate of Deposit was charged $3,342.61 to pay off the loan. There is no business or family relationship between Powell and Buberniak. Powell has repeatedly made efforts (phone calls, in person visits, letters) to collect the bad debt from Buberniak but has not been successful in doing so. After six months of trying, Powell concluded, on November 31, 1991, that the debt was totally worthless. Legal action to collect the debt would probably not result in payment of any part of the debt.

DEAR IRA CUSTOMER:

As you know Northern Central Bank offers fixed yield or variable yield IRA's. In a variable yield account, the entire balance in the account earns interest at a floating rate. The account will mature 18 months from the opening date. A fixed yield account offers a choice of rates and terms. The rate of interest earned on each deposit will be guaranteed for the term chosen. The interest shown is from last interest credit to the maturity date.

We would like to advise you that at the time of maturity, you can transfer, rollover or change the type of account without penalty. You can do so by contacting your nearest Northern Central Bank Community Office within ten days of the maturity date stated below.

Type of Account:	FIXED YIELD	6 MONTHS	Maturity Date:	12/30/91
Amount Matured:	2,000.00		Renewal Rate:	4.05000
Interest Earned:	85.37		New Maturity Date:	06/30/92
Total Matured:	2,085.37		Account Balance:	2,085.37

* INTEREST EARNED IS FROM DATE OF LAST INTEREST CREDIT

Your Northern Central Bank IRA is a valuable investment in your future. Yearly contributions provide a reduction in your income taxes and, more importantly, will enable you to have a more financially secure retirement.

Dear Mr Powell:

Thanks for your nice Letter and if I am elected Vice Pres. I am ready to go all out to make the A. P. A.
one of the great Livestock Organizations.

I still want to know if you showed a pair of Winning Black Orpingtons at the Sussex N. J. Show in 1990. I thought they were great - If you have these I sure would like to have 2 Settings of Eggs.

Hope to see you around at the shows. I'm on my way next week to Dalton, Ga, 2nd week to La; 3rd week
Texas, 4th week to Gard Kansas. a full month of shows.

Thanks
Forrest

LEAP YEARS

Thirty days hath September,
 April, June, and November;
 All the rest have thirty-one,
 Excepting February alone,
 And that has twenty-eight days clear
 And twenty-nine in each leap year.

This year, February has that extra day. For this, we can thank Julius Caesar (or at least the astronomers on his payroll), who changed the calendar to compensate for the quarter of a day beyond 365 days that the earth takes to travel around the sun. This quarter day accumulates into a whole extra day every four years. So, as part of the Julian Calendar Reform, instituted in 46 B.C., Caesar added a leap day to every fourth year.

Unfortunately, after Caesar's reform the calendar year was eleven minutes twelve seconds too long—an inaccuracy that probably mattered little to the Romans, but which had accumulated to ten days by the sixteenth century. In 1582, astronomers employed by Pope Gregory XIII recommended that ten days be chopped that year from the calendar, and that centennial years observe leap days only if the date is divisible by 400 (thus the year 2000 will be a leap year, the year 1900 was not). Those countries under papal authority adopted the Gregorian calendar. England and her colonies waited 170 years to accept it because they rejected papal ideas, regardless of merit.

But even the Gregorian calendar year is a bit too long. Over about 2,500 years, the Gregorian calendar itself will accumulate an error of one day.

One rarely sees the complete mnemonic in print.

1992 16th ANNUAL
CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA
AVIAN CLUB SHOW
By David Turley, Secty.

In case you've missed the ad in the Poultry Press and it has slipped your mind, this is your official reminder that the friendly folks from the C.P.A.C. cordially invite you to fellowship and show with us on May 2-3 in Bloomsburg.

Before we get into that subject, I would just like to take a little time to thank all of the members who made the Fall Auction a success. It is especially encouraging to us that with each event there is more help to make the work load a little lighter for all involved. I would also like to thank all of you who brought and those who bought. Once we got over that minor, little, insignificant oversight in the very beginning where we neglected to record the buyers number on the bird they had purchased, things pretty much motored right along. Reverend Romig once again did an excellent job as our auctioneer. His knowledge and abilities certainly rank him on the top of the list of poultry auctioneers and I recommend him to any club in need of such services. All those who took the time to help set up, coop-in birds, carry birds, work the food stand, do the paper work and clean up, should know that their labor was most profitable to the club. We sold a number of brooders, waterers, feeders, carriers, scales, traps, wire and assorted good stuff most of which was in fine shape. The array of furry and feathered critters was as usual, quite varied numbering nearly 660 sales. By the end of the day some excellent stock and $2347.50 had changed hands. Just as important a good time was had by all! Between the commission on the auction and the profit on the food stand, the club profited more than enough to make the work worthwhile. If you missed the 1991 Fall Auction, don't worry, we'll just keep on having one each year until you manage to get your priorities straight and show up.

Now on to the new stuff. We will be hosting the 16th Annual Show and Sale this year on Saturday, May 2nd and Sunday, May 3rd at the poultry building of the Bloomsburg Fairgrounds. Anyone who has shown with us knows that this is one of the finest facilities in this neck of the woods. There is plenty of room for the auction and to properly display the show birds. Vendors have ample space in the lot and accommodations are close at hand. Last year we initiated a few ideas to spruce up the place that went over really well and will be expanded upon with each event. It is our desire to make these shows a place for competition that is also fun, educational and an enticement to the newcomers in the fancy.

Our poultry and waterfowl judges will be Bruno Bortner, Paul Kroll and Charles Wabeck. We also have Elton Minnich on standby just in case we fill the building and I would like nothing better than to see just that. Mike and Bill Kell will again be handling the paperwork and judging on the pigeons with at least one more judge to be announced. Several meets have been secured with more to come. I will try to be more specific on this and with a listing of specials next time. We will as in the past have displays set up, run a raffle of donated items and have a 50/50 drawing. Harold Strasser and Leon Keeler will be setting up the food stand on both Saturday and Sunday with the usual hot good stuff and sweet good stuff so leave your diet at home. Do not miss the auction on Saturday! Not only are we getting pretty good at it, but is an early opportunity to get the stock you need for the coming season. Many of the birds sold at last springs' auction would have done well in the show the following day.

If you have shown with us in the past two years, you will automatically get an entry booklet. If you haven't shown with us and would like to give us a try, we would love to have you. You can either call or write me for an entry. David Turley, R.R. 1, Box 220, Hunlock Creek, Pennsylvania 18621. (717) 256-7894.

REMEMBER THE GARDEN STATE

By Adrienne Blankenship

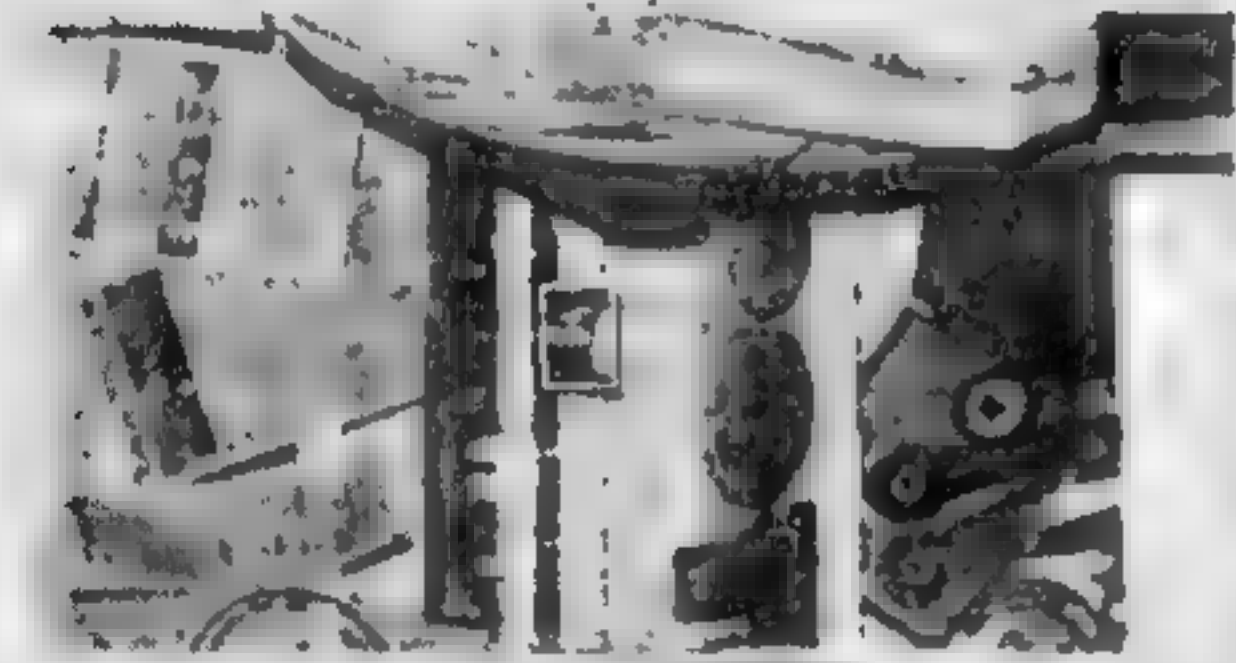

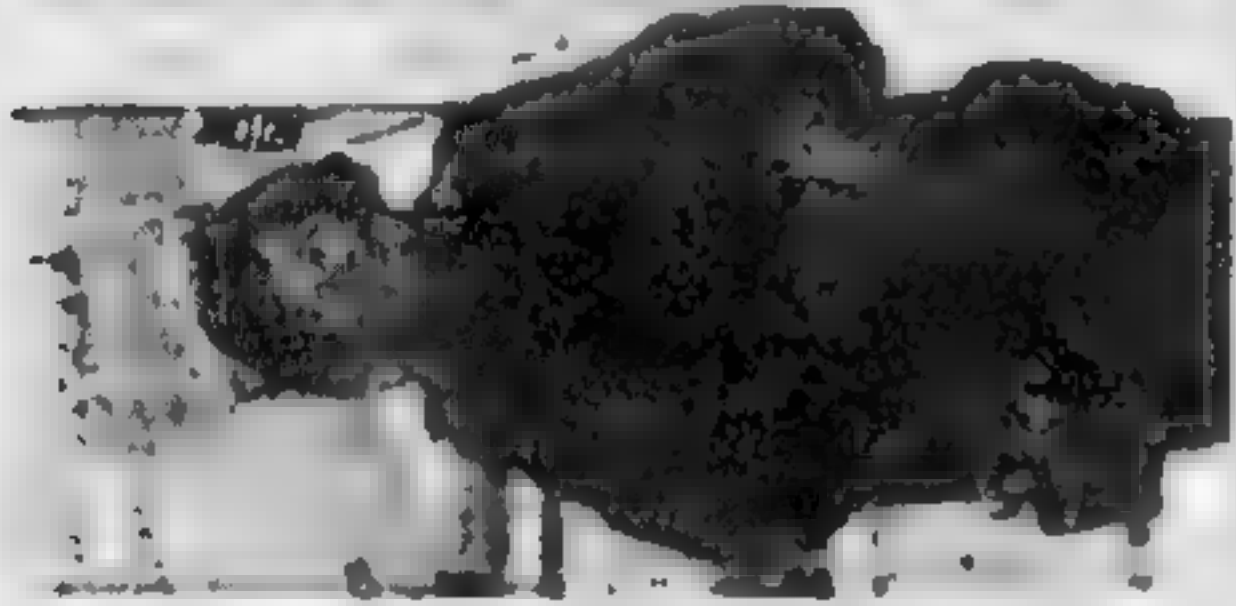

It is somewhat hard to believe that fifty shows have come and gone. But with a little help from our friends, we will never forget.

Our Fiftieth Annual Fall Show brought friends and exhibitors together for a weekend of pleasurable competition in a relaxing atmosphere. Old friendships ignited stories of shows that were held long ago with talk of poultry..the champions..the breeding and conditioning, remembrances of the "Ole Timers" and those yet to come. New exhibitors were caught up in all the excitement, realizing that there was so much more to "raising a few chickens".

The young people at our show exhibit with pride and enthusiasm, as their accomplishments in poultry, sportsmanship and showmanship are evident.

We would like to say "Thank You" to all of you, we could not have done it without you! A special thanks to all that helped behind the scenes, especially in setting up and breaking down. To our judges, you have our respect and gratitude for a job well done.

Classic Chickens For the Back Yard

by GAIL DAMEROW

The chicken-raising mentality—that's how novelist Theodore Dreiser described the great American desire to settle in the country and raise a few chickens for tastier eggs and healthier meat. If you, too, possess a chicken-raising mentality, here's a guide to help you.

When selecting chickens, the best choice for a small flock is one of the dual-purpose meat and egg breeds: full-breasted birds that lay respectable quantities of eggs (about 200 per year). Decide how many eggs you want and then base the number of chickens in your flock on that. The usual size of a flock is 20, but a couple with no children who want only enough eggs for themselves might want to keep about a dozen hens. A rooster isn't necessary unless you want fertilized eggs (capable of producing a chick), and then you'll need one for every dozen or so hens. Color is the only difference between white and brown eggs.

Classic breeds such as the Rhode Island Red, New Hampshire, Orpington, Plymouth Rock, and Wyandotte are the best chickens to have around your place because they can survive adverse weather conditions, flourish with minimum shelter, and forage for much of their sustenance. Some varieties, such as the Black Orpington and Rhode Island Red, also have coloring that helps protect them from predators: Their black, red, mottled, or striped plumage allows them to blend easily into their surroundings. Some still hatch their own eggs without an incubator.

In contrast, highly specialized, white-feathered industrial breeds have been bred to produce either meat or eggs, but not both. These high-strung, flighty birds require strictly controlled housing, expensive high-protein rations, and considerable veterinary care.

Once you've selected your flock, you'll need a place to house them. If you wish, you can go all out and construct a prizewinning henhouse (see "The Ideal Chicken Coop," February 1981), but your chickens will be just as comfy in a remodeled outbuilding. I've seen hens cozily residing in a converted potting shed, a packing crate, and even an outhouse fitted with a perch in place of the commode. A flock's two basic housing requirements are met by a modest draft-free shelter and a stoutly fenced yard that chickens can't dig under and that offers protection from predators such as dogs and hawks.

Relocate your chickens annually to prevent the build-up of pathogens and parasites in the ground. This is an often overlooked detail. Folks who would never plant cabbages or potatoes in the same plot two years in a row keep their chickens in the same place year after year. Even when the coop itself is in constant use—cleaned and disinfected regularly—the poultry should be rotated. A practical rotation design is to have several runs coming out from the coop like spokes in a wheel.

Your chickens will be content in a dwelling as small as 3 feet high, but you'll find cleanup and egg collection easier if clearance is at least sufficient to avoid bumping your head. Allow 4 square feet of living space per chicken, and 8 to 10 inches of roost. The roost may be a 2-inch-diameter sapling or anything rough enough to provide a good grip. Many a defunct wooden ladder is reincarnated as a henhouse roost, anchored 18 inches off the ground and at least 12 inches from a parallel wall. Cover the floor with 4 inches of wood shavings, ground corn cobs, or shredded paper to absorb moisture and manure. Concrete floors are easy to clean, but can be cold and hard on an animal's feet. If you have healthy chickens, packed dirt works well. Avoid a raised wooden floor because the space under it is cold and can attract rats.

Where winter weather is severe, insulating the coop will help retain body heat generated by the flock. Prevent frostbitten combs by installing a small, thermostatically controlled heater surrounded by a wire cage above the perch. In any climate keep eggs rolling in all winter by including a 60-watt light bulb on a timer set to provide 14 hours of total lighting, natural plus electric.

To discourage hens from hiding their eggs, furnish one 14-inch nest for every four hens. A narrow sill will keep the eggs from rolling out, and straw or other nesting material will keep them clean and unbroken. Eggs can freeze in cold weather and spoil in hot, so collect them regularly.

Hens start laying at five to six months, then stop for a few weeks in late summer to molt, during which they exchange all their feathers for a new set. A good hen lays nearly an egg a day at her peak, averaging a little better than one every other day over the course of a year, and gradually declining after the second year.

Just how long a hen will lay is anybody's guess. An average life span is about 12 years, although occasionally you'll hear of a biddy reaching the ripe old age of 20. Most don't live out their natural lives but succumb instead to a falling ax for three good reasons.

First, young hens are tastier than worn-out ones. Second, as the hens lay less they become less economical to keep. Third, health complications increase with age. For one or all of these reasons, most people replace their entire flock every year or two.

To kill a chicken, hang it from the legs in a killing cone. Then stab it through the mouth to the brain with a killing knife—a thin, sharp knife made specifically for this purpose. The cone keeps the chicken from flapping around, and the knife through the brain causes the feathers to loosen, making it easier to pluck the bird. If you don't have a cone and knife, shoot the chicken through the brain.

Before plucking the chicken (which you can do indoors or out), dip the bird in a pot of hot water for a few seconds to further loosen the feathers. Then pluck the bird, gut it, and rinse it in cold water. Before cooking or freezing the chicken, put it in the refrigerator for a few days to age the meat.

Although classic breeds are less susceptible to health hazards than their industrial counterparts, you should still maintain their health by keeping a closed flock—quarantining new birds, discouraging visits from chicken keepers who might inadvertently introduce some disease, and avoiding other keepers' flocks. Each poultry population develops its own specific set of immunities, so new birds (or manure from other flocks transported on a keeper's shoe soles) may introduce a disease your flock has not been exposed to and to which it has developed no immunity. Any chicken that dies of disease should be burned or buried deeply so it can't be dug up.

The Partridge Wyandotte is a medium-weight bird with yellow skin. The color of its eggs vary from light to rich brown.

The heavily feathered Buff Orpington is ideal for colder climates. It has white skin.

Because chickens are so susceptible to a variety of illnesses, bringing home chicks (both initially and later as replacements) rather than laying hens reduces the likelihood of importing disease. Chicks may be purchased from a hatchery sexed, meaning at least 95 percent are pullets (young hens), or they may be bought exactly as hatched, so that about 50 percent are cockerels (young roosters). Sexing newly hatched chicks of the pure breeds takes special training. Some hybrids, including Red or Black Sex Links, can be sexed based on color. Extra roosters can be raised as fryers.

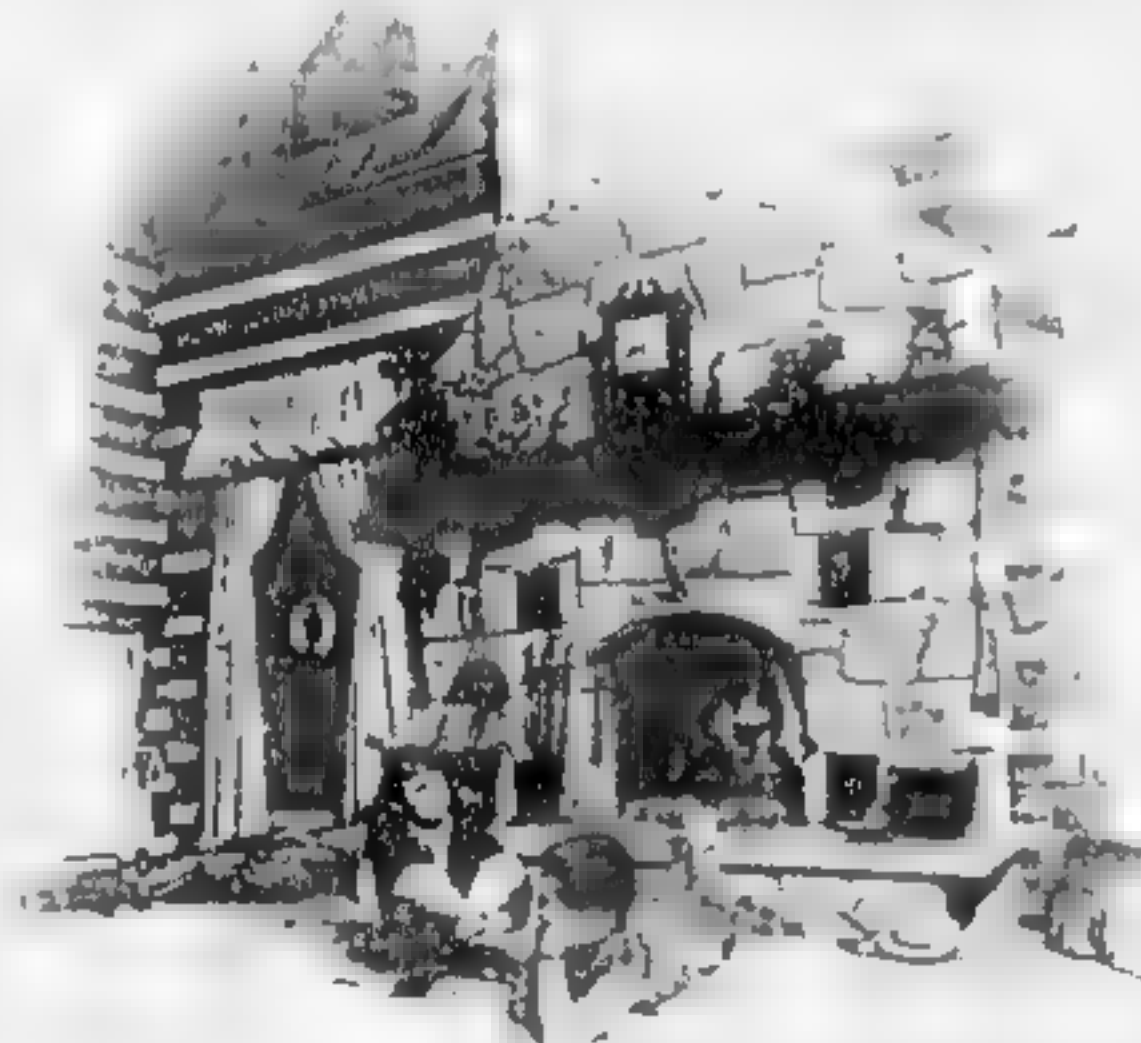

If you keep a pure breed, you can hatch chicks from your own eggs, either in an incubator (see "Hatching Your Own" by Peter Garnham, March 1985) or under a setting hen. (Hybrids won't breed true if you hatch chicks from them.) Because laying stops when setting starts, the mothering instinct has been bred out of most commercial strains. However, the classic breeds still hatch and raise their young.

To feed your chickens, a hanging feeder works well because it is easy to fill and clean. Place the feeder at the height of a chicken's back. This prevents the chickens from climbing on the feeder and messing in it. If you attach the feeder to a chain and hang the chain from a nail, you can adjust the height of the feeder as your chicks grow. The price of feed depends on location, but the cost of feeding 12 hens is about $80 a year.

Feed chicks commercially prepared starter mash (about 15 cents a pound), switching to layer pellets (about 10 cents a pound) one month before you expect your first eggs. If shells crack with little provocation, set out a hopper of ground oyster shell to provide calcium. Make sure fresh drinking water is always available. During cold weather, offer scratch grain at roosting time to keep the flock warm overnight. Skip this treat in hot weather, when it only turns to unhealthy fat.

This draft-free coop allows plenty of room for the chickens to move about while accommodating enough nesting boxes for a 20-bird flock. The narrow sill on the nesting boxes keeps eggs from rolling out of the nest. A perch, or roost, is fit above the nesting boxes parallel to the walls. Two windows and a 60-watt light bulb set on a timer keep the coop well lit for 14 hours a day. A hanging feeder, the most sanitary feeding method, is installed on a chain so it can be adjusted to suit the chickens as they grow. Another feeder dispenses water, and the feed box holds layer pellets. Shredded paper covers the dirt floor to absorb moisture and manure.

You'll get tastier eggs with brighter yolks, and your flock will be more content, if your chickens range where they can peck at fresh vegetation and scratch up protein-rich bugs and worms. But fence them away from the garden until after harvest, or they'll scratch up seedlings and gobble down tender greens.

The chicken-raising mentality is as pervasive now as it was in Dreiser's day, and rightly so. No country place is complete without a colorful, contented flock of chickens. □

Gail Damerow, coauthor of Chickens in Your Backyard: A Beginner's Guide (Rodale Press, 1976), says she couldn't do without the meat and eggs supplied by the chickens roaming her Tennessee farm.

Making Maple Syrup

by FRED SCHNEIDER

There's nothing quite like pure maple syrup on a stack of hot pancakes, with sausage or bacon and a cup of steaming coffee, to get a cold winter's day off to a good start—or real maple syrup on a big bowl of ice cream to cool the heat of summer.

Many folks here in the western Adirondacks, in the heart of the North American maple region, make their own maple syrup in small, backyard operations. You too can make enough maple syrup to satisfy your needs, and those of a few friends, without spending a lot of money for equipment. What you do need is time, patience, and a fair amount of work.

Consider these facts about making maple syrup before starting out. It takes about 40 gallons of sap to make 1 gallon of pure maple syrup; one tap yields about 1 quart of finished syrup. Boiling the sap down to syrup takes eight to 10 hours.

The sugaring season begins in the early spring when the days are warm and the night temperatures drop below freezing. This warming/cooling action causes tree sap to flow from roots to branches. Here in northern New York the season starts in mid-March and runs until the end of April; farther south the season may begin in mid-February. A normal sugaring season usually lasts about six weeks.

While there are several species of maple trees, the sugar or hard maple and the less common black maple provide the best syrup sap because of their high sugar content. Red and silver maples can be tapped as well, but they produce less sap. Their sap has a lower sugar content and the taste of the resulting syrup isn't quite as good.

Locate the trees you plan to tap during the summer when they are in leaf. If you're not good at identifying trees, seek the help of someone who is, such as a forester or logger. There are several books available in bookstores and libraries that will help you identify trees.

Necessary Equipment

Before making the first tap, gather the equipment you'll need to go from sap to syrup. To drill the tap holes in the trees you'll need a bit brace and 7/16-inch wood auger. You'll also need sap spouts, a hammer to drive them into the holes you have bored, and buckets to catch the sap as it flows from the tree through the spouts.

Buy sap buckets or use 1-gallon plastic milk jugs that can be recycled at the end of the season. Cut a hole through the jug near the top where the threads for the cap are located. Then hang the jug on the spout so the spout is inside the jug. Keep the cap on the jug to keep dirt and rain out of the sap. Coffee cans and other containers can also be used. Never use anything that contained toxic materials because residue may remain even after repeated washings.

Another essential item is a bucket large enough to collect the sap from your taps. And, unless your trees are close to the boiling setup, you'll need a gathering tank to hold the sap from your gathering bucket for the trip to your boiling rig. If you can't drive to your taps, you may also want a sleigh or small wagon to haul the sap back to the boiling rig.

At your boiling area you'll need holding tanks to keep the sap until you're ready to fire up the evaporator. They are also useful for days when the sap is coming faster than you can boil it. Clean trash cans with plastic liners, 55-gallon drums, cattle watering tanks available at feed stores, and milk cans picked up at garage sales make good holding tanks. You can never have too many storage containers. Having empty ones sitting around is preferable to throwing sap away because all your containers are full.

A Backyard Operation

The sap must be boiled to remove water. Because maple sap usually is 2 to 3 percent sugar, it takes eight to 10 hours of boiling to convert 40 gallons of sap to 1 gallon of syrup. Although sap can be boiled on the kitchen range, I don't recommend it because the boiling puts a large quantity of moisture into the air. I know of one novice whose kitchen wallpaper peeled away as he boiled sap on his stove.

Boiling syrup outdoors is best. Backyard boiling setups run the gamut from barbecues and old cookstoves to cement-block arches laid up without mortar so they can be removed later. The cement block is nearly indispensable in backyard syrupmaking and can be purchased at a low cost at a building-supply store. Or you may find some used ones at garage sales.

An arch is so called because the back of its firebox is sloped to deflect the heat toward the back of the long evaporating pan. Sand or sheet metal can form the slope. Without the slope the heat will not be evenly distributed from front to back.

A 55-gallon drum cut in half lengthwise with a door in one end and sand in the bottom also makes an excellent firebox. The sloped sand deflects the heat. A smokestack in the rear will help the fire draw better and keep the smoke out of your face.

A large flat pan such as a restaurant roasting pan works best for boiling sap, but anything works that is at least 4 to 8 inches deep and that presents as much surface to the fire as possible. The more heating and evaporating surface the pan has, the faster you can condense the sap.

Either design your arch to fit your pan or vice versa. A sheet-metal shop can make an 18-by-24-by-8-inch deep pan with a draw-off spout built in so it's easier to drain the hot syrup.

Fuel your fire with well-seasoned wood or slab wood from a nearby sawmill. It will take about half a cord to make 5 gallons of syrup.

Tapping the Trees

Choose a tree with a minimum diameter of 10 inches at breast height. According to Clarence F. Coons in Sugar Bush Management for Maple Syrup Producers (Ontario Ministry of Food and Agriculture, 1975), trees with a diameter of 10 to 15 inches can tolerate one tap; 15 to 20 inches, two; 20 to 25 inches, three; greater than 25 inches, four. Carry a ruler with you to measure with so you don't overtap and damage the tree. When tapping, take into account the depth of the snow you're standing on. Remember that the tap will be high when deep snow melts. Try to envision where the tap will be when the snow is gone and tap accordingly.

With your bit brace and 7/16-inch auger, bore a hole at a slight upward angle to a depth of 2 1/2 to 3 inches. This gets well into the sap wood. Tap over a large root or under a large branch to ensure a good flow. Avoid boring near old tap holes because these areas permit little or no sap. Drive the spout into the hole with a hammer, but not so hard that it will split the surrounding wood; then hang a bucket or jug from the hook on the spout.

If you don't have enough maple trees on your own property, look for them along roads. Most people will allow you to tap them, but ask first.

How many taps should you make? If one tap yields 1 quart of syrup during the season, decide how much syrup you want to make. If you want a couple gallons, you'll need eight taps, and that means boiling about 80 gallons of sap. Don't get carried away with the tapping. It takes about 20 hours to boil down 80 gallons of sap in a small backyard rig. Fortunately for syrupmakers, the sap doesn't come all at once.

Check the taps daily to make sure the buckets aren't overflowing. How the sap runs depends on the weather. It may run steadily for a day or two then be quiet for a week, which gives you time to catch up with the boiling. But don't let the sap sit longer than a day before boiling it or it will ferment and produce dark syrup that doesn't taste good. If the weather is cold the sap can be safely stored for two to three days.

Boiling the Sap

Keep the fire hot when boiling the sap. Before putting the sap into the evaporator pan, filter it through a kitchen strainer to remove foreign matter such as bugs or twigs. Don't let the pan go dry because it makes an awful mess, and burned syrup is hard to clean up. As the sap in the evaporator pan boils down, add enough fresh, filtered sap to maintain the level in the pan.

Preheat the fresh sap before adding it to the pan so the process continues efficiently without the interruption caused by bringing the unheated new mixture back to boiling. To preheat the fresh mixture, keep another pan or container on the back of your boiling rig. As the front pan boils down, use a long-handled dipper to add enough fresh sap from the preheated pan to maintain the level in the evaporator pan. Don't forget to keep the preheated pan filled.

When the syrup sheets rather than drips from a scoop, it's ready for canning.

As the sap boils, a scum of impurities may form around the pan. It is not harmful and can be removed with a strainer or dipper.

The Final Product

When the boiling sap gets thicker and is closer to becoming syrup, take it into your kitchen to finish it, because the heat can be controlled better on a stove. At this point you'll appreciate a draw-off spout and valve. If your pan doesn't have one, you can use a dipper to put the sap into the finishing pan (a 5-to 8-quart stockpot will do). If you must pick up the boiling pan to pour the sap out, use a pair of welder's gloves to help you handle it.

The syrup is ready when it is 7 degrees higher than the boiling point of water—219°F (use a candy thermometer to check). At this time the syrup may begin to boil over; stop that by touching the bubbles with a dab of butter or bacon. If you don't have a thermometer, another way to make sure the syrup is done is by seeing if it sheets, rather than drips, from a spoon or scoop.

Pour the syrup through a flannel filter and into sealable storage containers. The filtering removes remaining impurities and niter, sometimes called sugar sand. Niter is not harmful and may appear as granules in the bottom of the pan. Wash the filters in warm water to clean them, but don't use soap. Then let them air dry. Store them in a dry place away from rodents.

Sterilized glass canning jars work well to store your syrup, as will any containers that are clean and can be tightly sealed. Plastic containers should not be used—unless they are made specifically for maple syrup—because the syrup will assume the taste of the plastic and won't keep well. One of my neighbors uses large glass salad dressing jars from a local restaurant. These jars are attractive, have a screw top, and can be easily cleaned. The syrup keeps best if it is canned and sealed at 180°F. When stored in a cool, dark place, the syrup will keep indefinitely.

The fire under your evaporator is a great place to cook hot dogs, and you can hard-boil eggs in the sap. Before you know it the neighbors will be hanging around, which can take a lot of the tedium out of the work (and the extra hands are often welcome). Just don't forget the syrup. Things can happen fast and you need to pay attention to the project, because once the boiling starts you must stay with it until the sweet end. □

A Sugarhouse You Can Build

This compact sugarhouse is ideal for small-scale syrup-making. The structure lends itself well to being a woodshed, workshop, or potting shed, allowing plenty of space to store equipment and to perform the tasks at hand. Those in need of a storage shed will find it ideal for tools, lawn mowers, tillers, and other items. And with proper insulation and finishing, the building would make a heated living space.

It was designed for COUNTRY JOURNAL readers by Shelter-Kit, Inc., of Tilton, New Hampshire, which has been making precut houses and barns since 1970. It is available as a precut kit, or can be built from scratch with construction plans from COUNTRY JOURNAL (see sidebar for details).

The structure is an 8-by-12-foot working building, not a scaled-down garden shed. An evaporator large enough to boil sap from up to 150 maple taps will fit inside comfortably with plenty of room left to work

Inside the sugar house. The building comfortably accommodates a wood-fired evaporator (center)—capable of boiling down sap from 150 taps—and a storage tank (right rear), with plenty of space left over to work in. A window can be installed in any wall. Note the cord at rear used to raise and lower cupola vents.

And while sugaring requirements determined many of its features, the building is also suited for other uses.

Its gable roof has a 12/12 (45-degree) pitch, with a 6-foot-long cupola at the peak housing two full-length, hinged vent doors. These doors can be opened by pull cords to allow steam to escape while boiling down sap. A metal smoke flue can be run out through a wall, through the main roof, or through the cupola, depending on the type of evaporator or stove you

The overall height of the building is 13 feet 6 inches. A 5-by-12-foot open shed can be attached to either side of the structure for storing firewood, a bulk tank, or other equipment and tools.

Simplicity, strength, and versatility guided the design of the building

All the materials are available at lumberyards and building-supply centers. The frame is built around pressure-treated 4-by-4 posts that can be set into holes in the ground or onto concrete piers or footings. A pressure-treated 2-by-8 girt is the only other framing member that comes in contact with the ground, and is the basis for an optional floor frame. The remainder of the frame is made up of 2-by-4, 2-by-6, and 2-by-8 kiln-dried spruce, joined with eight-, 10-, and 16-penny galvanized common nails.

The siding is 1-by-12 white pine shiplap boards, installed vertically. Center-matched boards, sometimes called tongue and groove boards, would also work, as would a simple board and batten.

There are many roofing options. The galvanized roof shown is nearly indestructible and sheds snow quickly. Steel, aluminum, and other sheet roofing materials are available in a variety of colors and patterns, usually in 3- or 4-foot widths. A roof of boards or plywood could also be installed and covered with wood or asphalt shingles.

A simple door and window can be placed almost anywhere in the building. The door is made of siding with a Z brace on the back and hung with 6-inch hinges.

I built this sugarhouse for about $750, but costs can vary depending on your location. Material costs in general have been unstable lately, so be wary of estimates and quotes more than a few weeks old.

Dear Robert,

haven't heard from you in a while, but I can't really afford to call .... (I just have to be careful for a while - the economy is so precarious.)

I'm sending this to your parents' house. Are you still there? How's it going? Or are you going to surprise me with a new teaching job?

I wish you would just come & live here. It's so nice and quiet & hassle-free. I'm enclosing a glimpse of my house. It has a door canopy and a wrought iron railing now but maybe you can get an idea. It's small but it's awfully cute. I get a lot more visitors now; people really seem to like it here. There's a lot to do in Huntington. Like last weekend, Richard & I went to an antique show in Cold Spring Harbor (couldn't help looking for coin silver spoons) and then to a local antiques place called The Yankee Pedler. Richard is designing some landscaping for me, too.

Things are pretty stable at allstate, too. We're still losing money but not quite as much as they, though. So although they're not hiring, they're not laying anyone off or freezing salaries. My boss is great (he bought a house right after I did so we've gone through a lot together).

One weird thing happened: my brother dropped in to visit my mother. It's been about 10 years, but he's exactly the same. (I guess you know what that means) Anyway, he seems to be gone again. Whew. My mother now wants to move to Florida - saw a condo she wants - but can't seem to sell her co-op. Hardly anyone has even looked at it. We'll have to change brokers - or try to sell it privately.

Ashley, Cassandra & Max are fine & have lots of other birds & cats to keep them company (thru the windows, of course). They seem happy.

They keep asking me when you're coming to see them & I don't know what to tell them.

DROP US A LINE, WILL YA?

Love,
Shen, C

3/3/92 - FCRS - day 14 - not a very focused day although productive in a very strange way. Devoted several class periods to going through my American coin silver "Catalogue," such as it is. It needs much work. I am very impressed by the breadth of my collection and by the quality of it. It all seems new to <sup>me</sup> since it is about a decade since I have been actively involved with my silver. It is safely in box 1036 in the Pioneer American Bank. I am not sure of the exact number of spoon that I have, <sup>but</sup> there must be at least 400 of them - maybe more or less. What astounds me is the value of them: the tablespoon are each worth $100 each; most of the teaspoon are worth $25 each - a good number of them are worth $50+. I must do an exact inventory of my silver collection.

During my preparation period, I went down to the Community Bank & Trust Company and checked the inventory of my safe deposit box there (#101), wherein are contained the most important personal papers, photographs, film, audio-cassettes, microfilm etc. of my life. I have a three-page typed inventory of the contents of the box, and when I have updated the inventory, I will include a copy of it in these pages, naturally.

Yesterday I moved the 17 Single Comb Rhode Island Red chicks up to the barn from the cellar — they are surely old enough and I will receive 25 more chicks in the mail tomorrow (Wednesday), Thursday or Friday.

This will be a fairly exciting week in the poultry world: the 25 chicks will arrive from Tennessee; a couple of eggs from my standards are due to hatch on Friday (Under the young Silver-Laced Wyandotte hen) — but I don't know which hen have laid the eggs. The chicks will be pure-blooded, of that I am sure, but they may be Black Orpington, Partridge Rock or Wyandotte.

and the weather has been very Spring-like and wonderful: damp and humid and about 45-50; temperature remains above freezing over-night. wonderful.

3/5/92 - The March '92 Poetry Press does not contain either of the articles that I sent to Bill Wueff.
"Just for the Record I" could have been published in Jan-Feb. or March;
"American Game Sautam" should have been in the March issue.

I don't know what to do. Maybe

I should wait until the next issue is out and then contact Bill Wueff. It makes me very angry to see some of the drivel in print in PP — When it could easily be <sup>high quality</sup> my articles in their stead. There is no hurry. They can be published at any time, but I do not want them ignored. My inclination at present is to write him a letter & ask him where we stand.

What I think I will do is write him and tell him I have yet another article ready and then bring up the other two.

3/4/92 - drove down to Hazelton and dropped off my 1990 and 1991 Journals to Micrographix International for microfilming. It's always a good feeling to have taken such a major step.

Pam, there, is very helpful and efficient and I delivered my journals to her; filming will be done in a week or so.

3/6/92 - 1 P. M. Finally! some chicks from my own standard eggs. What appears to be a standard Black orpington is already out and another may be on the way, although I am not overly optimistic about the second one. I shall be very relieved to get a chick from my standard Black orpington. — to know that the male is fertile & that the systems are working, so to speak. The chick is under a setting pullet Silver-Laced Wyandotte. The 25 chicks from Tennessee should have arrived today but did not. I guess it will have to be tomorrow. The Stoney Knob Poultry Farm phoned last night to say that the chicks had been shipped in the morning of Thursday the 5th. They could easily have arrived this morning, but did not. It will be tragic if 353 2.

they don't arrive tomorrow (Sat.) because they will not survive if they have to wait out the week-end somewhere.

My 3rd day this week at FCRS:
which means that my unemployment check for this week will be: $228.00 ($180 for three days - $117 = $63;  $291 - 63 = 228.00$ ). Today ends week #12 of unemployment benefits; 14 more weeks and then maybe an extension.

The January 13th chicks from Duane are growing nicely and are now 7 weeks old. An initial round of culling has already been done and I will be able to cull further very shortly. The Rhode Island Red "flock" are growing nicely. They are beautiful birds; also rather tame, which is surely a virtue.

354
3/7/92

Dear Stoney Kurb:

The chicks arrived this morning and it appears that they had a rough trip, as five of them died in transit: 2 Partridge Rocks, 2 Banded Rocks, 1 Silver-laced Wyandotte. The survivors are doing fine and I am well pleased with them.

The quality of the service that we all have to endure from the U. S. Postal Service is lamentable, at best. Earlier this year, I received via the Postal Service an order of chicks from a breeder in the mid-west, and 50% of them had frozen to death in transit. It didn't used to be that way. It used to be that you could depend on the Postal Service for prompt and careful service. That, I'm afraid, is no longer the case. To order hatching eggs through the U.S. Mail is to throw away your money. Last year I received a very carefully packed order for two dozen hatching eggs and they were all cracked or broken. I honestly believe that there are postal employees here and there in the system who take pleasure in deliberately throwing around boxes that are marked "fragile." at the same time, there are a great many careful and conscientious postal employees.

Well, enough of my bad experiences with the U. S. Postal Service.

Thank you for the chicks. The White Wyandottes appear to be wonderfully robust and strong, and I am very anxious to see how the Barred Rocks turn out.

Sincerely,

J. Robert Powell

- 7 std. Partridge Rocks
- 5 " Silver-faced Wyandottes
- 5 " Banded Rocks
- 6 " White Wyandottes

Died in transit:

- 2 std. Partridge Rocks
- 2 Banded Rocks - std.
- 1 Silver-faced Wyandotte - std.

It breaks my heart to see dead chicks — which died because of poor service from the United States Postal Service.

The Partridge Rocks appear to be more red than brown; maybe this strain is the one that Jerry &

Arden Slicker show? The chicks appear to be on the small size.

Some of the Silver-Laced Wyandotte chicks also appear to be small.

The Banded Rocks appear good sized. We shall see.

I now have chicks everywhere: many here with chicks and 5 separate pens of chicks under lights, plus the new ones today. I did some advanced shuffling about of cages up in the barn and have created a very roomy and open feeling in the hen house, which was very full and crowded all winter long. Tomorrow I will "fine tune" the new arrangement and it will be even better.

3/8/92 - 9 P.M.

Vigorous re-organization and spring cleaning in the hen house - all day today. I had a grand time & so did the "hens." The closed and crowded winter aspect of things is gone and an open - new and airy - new is in place. All is well.

My final project for the day was to tap six maple trees and to get some sap to make maple syrup. I have all the necessary supplies. Alas, the brace & bit for tapping (to drill the holes for the spiles) is broken and I shall have to borrow one from someone, probably tomorrow. I imagine that DWP II will be in town starting this coming week-end and it will be fun to get him involved in the boiling down process.

Have made good progress in preparing my "Letters Received, 1958-1982" for microfilming. The year pages marking the year sections in the Chronologically arranged letters were the focus of much of my time and energy at Forest City H.S. on Friday. On each year page, I have now listed where I lived and worked & other important events for each year — not an easy task in many cases. Not only is this project a gigantic one, it is also a very complex one. As soon as I get my 1990 and 1991 Journals back from micrographic, I will have these "Letters Received 1958-1982" all microfilmed and that will be that.

Professor Francis H. Curtis, Chair
Department of Education University of Scranton
Scranton, PA 18510-4603

Dear Professor Curtis:

I am interested in teaching part time, either day or evening, at the University of Scranton during the academic year 1992-1993. A copy of my current résumé is enclosed.

My Ph.D. is in French language and literature and I have had nine years of teaching experience on the college level. I am prepared to teach all levels of French language and literature, in French. In addition, I am prepared to teach "Masterpieces of French Literature in English translations" as well as courses for graduate students who are preparing to demonstrate second-language proficiency in French.

At the beginning of the current academic year, I accepted an adjunct position at the Worthington Scranton campus of Penn State to teach a course in Humanities, which I have long wanted to do. To have been given the opportunity to teach the humanities has had an extraordinary tonic-like effect on my critical thinking. At the same time, it presents exciting new challenges, from the point of view of pedagogy, since I am, as it were, teaching outside of my field of specialization (languages). In the future, I hope to be able to teach both French language and literature as well as the humanities.

In the course of my academic training and professional career, I have also done a great deal of work in the area of American literature and would be very interested in teaching a course in that area.

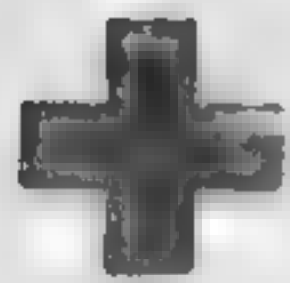

Given my adjunct position at Penn State, the best place to reach me by telephone is at home (282-5197) or at the mailing address given at the top of this stationery.

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell

3/10/92 - 845 P.M. Maple Syrup. Tapped some maple trees this afternoon to collect some sap to make maple syrup. 40 gallons of sap yield one gallon of syrup. I put in 6 taps/spiles in the large tree in the front yard. Hopefully by the week-end I will have a goodly supply of sap so that I can boil down / "sugar off" this Saturday. I think DWP II will be here and he will surely get involved and have a grand time. I had to borrow a "brace and bit" from Cousin Peg (I knew that Uncle Albert had to have had one); the "brace" here was/is broken. The weather, of course, determines the sap flow: warm sunny days and freezing nights. I made quite a bit of maple syrup two years in a row about 5 or 6 years ago, I think it was. There are few things in this world as pleasant to do as to "sugar off." I can hardly wait.

P. O. Box 1955
Marion, OH 43305

Dear Mr. Lawrence:

I continue to receive badly damaged/crumpled/brutalized issues of The Chronicle (see p. 1 of the 2/26/92 issue that is enclosed; I have neatly folded the page in half -- from top to bottom -- in order to mail it to you. all other creases, bends, tears & folds were in the page & issue when received).

The issues arrive in Carbondale in damaged condition: see note by rubber stamp above title. The Carbondale Post office is aware of the problem and is monitoring the condition of The Chronicle when it arrives in Carbondale.

Something must be done. It is not a pleasure to read the mangled issues of The Chronicle. If it is not possible for me to receive a copy of the paper in good condition, it seems un-wise to subscribe.

Sincerely,

S Robert Powell

3/11/92 - 9:10 A.M. Nasty winter storm in the works. Heavy rain at the beginning of the day and now sleet and this will be followed by snow and then cold temperatures, invariably. The sleet started just as I was arriving at Forest City High School at about 8:30 A.M.

Yesterday it was in the mid-50's F; tomorrow morning it will probably be about 10°F. The month of March is invariably complex when it comes to weather. The talk everywhere in the school is that "we" will get out early - the Elk Lake School District has apparently already closed for the day. I am, I believe, ready for anything. The birds <sup>of Spring</sup> are now more and more in evidence. Robins are abundant; also around now are Red-winged Blackbirds, Purple Grackles and migratory Mallards. The pioneers are here now and it won't be long before the flood gates open and the Spring and Summer birds will be everywhere. I must get busy and put up the three Bluebird houses that I brought with me from Elkdale, as the Bluebirds (the males?) return early and stake out their claims.

9:30<sup>AM.</sup> - Word from a student in the Know who says we will get out at noon.

That's fine with me. I shall be pleased to be paid a full day's salary for a half day's work as a substitute.

935 AM - the "front" of the storm appear to have passed through the area. The very strong, slapping wind has subsided and it almost appears as if the sun will come out.

I heard something on television a couple days ago that indicated that "journal keeping" is excellent for one's health. My primary motivation in "journal keeping" is "record keeping" - who was SRP, how did he live his life, what did he do, what did he think about, what did he worry about, what was his work. It makes perfect sense that in verbalizing that "record" that there are positive psychological and physical side-effects/benefits, as it were. To be sure, journal keeping is a grand form of "release". It all is very pleasurable, en même temps. De plus, I do like the physical act of writing — and I do like black ink on white paper.

I have been making an effort to reduce the number of checks that I write as much as possible; five seem to be right in line.

3/11/92 - 10 P.M. Invariably I find<sup>378</sup> myself confronted with the pleasant, but always perplexing, task of selecting the show birds as an entry deadline approaches. In this case, the Berke County Poultry Fancier Show in Reading on 3/29. I will enter about 14 birds, but which 14? There are always some clear
"yes" candidates: The S.C. Black Minorca hen, for example. But there are several question marks, especially when it comes to show her that suddenly set, like the Banded Rock pullet, for example, who has been "almost" setting for a couple days now. She is a very good show bird and could easily be Champion American (or beyond) at Berke. Do I break her up or do I allow her to set? I seem to be unable to make that <sup>376</sup> 2. decision at present, and I must make it by Saturday the 14th.

Apparently what I will have to do is to take the entry form with me up to the barn on Friday and simply make the decision. There are 4 spring shows, at least, that I want to show in:

Deer Poultry Farnen, 3/29

~~Summit~~ Show, 4/25-26

Central Pennsylvania, 5/2-3

Finger Lakes, 6/7

When is the Rochester Spring show?
I think it's the 3rd Sunday in May, which would be 5/17, which would be two weeks after the Central Pennsylvania Club show, which will be fine.

Board of Directors
Carbondale Public Library
Carbondale, PA 18407

Dear Board Member:

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors will be held on Tuesday, March 17, at 7:30 p.m.

On direction from Board President, Martin Langan, the main order of business will be the FUND DRIVE FOR THE NEW LIBRARY BUILDING. It is most important that all members come prepared to participate in the discussion. We've got to do our part to make the new building a reality. That's the bottom line...do we want this new library enough to pitch in with IDEAS...WORK...TOTAL SUPPORT.

Please, make that extra effort to attend this meeting. The library needs you now more than ever.

Sincerely,

Anne Muldoon

Meeting of the Board of Directors

CARBONDALE PUBLIC LIBRARY

February 18, 1992

The February 18, 1992 meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Public Library was called to order by President Marty Langan at 7:40 P.M. The meeting took place in the Board Room on the second floor of the Library building. Present at the meeting were: Marty Langan, Aubrey Staple, Joseph Pascoe, Hank Loftus, Jr., Anne Muldoon and S. Robert Powell. The Recording Secretary noted that nine members of the Board were absent and remarked: "I must say that I am disappointed by the number of absences at tonight's meeting. Given the fact that we are now embarked on a major effort to fund and erect a new library building, I think it is very important that we all make every effort to attend every meeting of the Board."

As the meeting began, a discussion of the River Street site for the proposed new building was underway. Aubrey Staple: "Mill Street ends at Trinity Place." Marty Langan: "George Cobb says that he recalls Mill Street as a street when he was young."

The Recording Secretary read the minutes of the January 21, 1992 meeting of the Board. It was moved (Pascoe) and seconded (Staple) that the minutes be approved as read and placed on file. The motion carried.

Aubrey Staple read the Treasurer's Report for January 1992. It was moved (Loftus) and seconded (Pascoe) that the Treasurer's Report be approved as read and placed on file. The motion carried.

CORRESPONDENCE AND COMMUNICATIONS. Aubrey Staple reported that Jack Raynor was in town last week. Jack and Vivian Raynor have been faithful and generous friends of the Carbondale Public Library for many years. Vivian worked as a volunteer in the Abington Library.

LIBRARY DIRECTOR'S REPORT. Anne Muldoon reported that the new library in Clark's Summit will open on March 2, 1992.

COMMITTEE REPORTS. None.

Marty Langan reported that Attorney Jim Walker has expressed an interest in serving on the CPL Board of Directors. The Board recommended that ML contact Attorney Walker and tell him that a position is now open on the Board of Directors.

ML reported that we do in fact own the current library building and can therefore sell it. Monsignor Purcell has made an inquiry about the present library building as has a friend of Aubrey Staple's.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

ML reported that on 02-05-92 the Carbondale Zoning Board approved the CPL's building proposal for the River Street site. He also reported that an agreement of sale has been signed (02-04-1992) between the Bonacci family and the CPL for the River Street site upon which the new library building will be erected. The CPL has paid the Bonacci family $12,500 and the CPL will have clear title to the property in 90 days. The CPL will pay the Bonacci family: $65,000 for the land, $35,000 for the building, and $25,000 to have the Bonacci family demolish the building. The lot will be leveled and clean when it becomes the CPL's property. The foundation of the building on the River Street site will remain (the engineers for the new building need to know exactly where the old foundation was located). Test borings on the lot will be carried out in a few days.

The CPL's application to the Commonwealth for funding for the new library building was submitted on February 6, 1992. A copy of the completed application was available for the members of the Board to examine. Marty Langan, Sally Felix and Anne Muldoon were congratulated and thanked by the Board for their conscientious and beautifully presented work on behalf of the CPL.

The River Street property will be in the CPL's name and the CPL will have to carry insurance on the property as soon as the sale of the property to the CPL is a fait accompli. It is expected that the Commonwealth will take action on the CPL's application in a couple of months. ML: "I would say that we have about a 30% chance of getting funded this year for the project."

A meeting of the Committee of the Whole of the CPL took place on January 29, 1992, at 7:15 P.M. in the Library building. At that meeting the Committee (Powell, Pascoe, Staple, Langan) voted unanimously to purchase the land on River Street for the new building even if the grant is not approved by the Commonwealth this year. At the 02-18-92 meeting of the Board, it was moved (Loftus) and seconded (Pascoe) that the decision of the Committee of the Whole on 01-29-1992 be ratified. The motion carried unanimously.

On the matter of fund raising for the new building, ML stated that we must have a master plan in order to raise the necessary $100,000 that must be raised locally. Each member of the Board must take an active management role in the fund raising effort. We need chair persons and leaders. We will organize in divisions: special gifts, "big" gifts, professional division, banks, schools and PTA, general public, for example.

ML talked with Sally Felix on 02-18-92 and she remarked that possibly the Weinberger Foundation can help out in this project. Congressman McDade has agreed to meet with Sally Felix and to support the new building project in Carbondale.

Hank Loftus suggested that the Friends of the Carbondale Public Library be re-activated. S. Robert Powell said that the CPL's bulk mail permit and privileges could be very useful in raising funds for the new building. Hank Loftus said that he could arrange a special benefit bingo in Saint Rose Hall for the benefit of the new building. Such a bingo benefit could take place in a month or so. Kathryn Race suggested to Anne Muldoon that note paper with an engraving of the building on it might be produced and sold to raise money; also commemorative plates might be produced and sold. Anne Muldoon said that the "donate a brick" idea had been very effectively used by other libraries to raise funds. Robert Powell wondered if perhaps the CPL's name should be changed to something like "Upper Lackawanna Valley Library." Joseph Pascoe made the point that we should retain the name "Carbondale" and pointed out that there are too many generic things in our world as it is and that we should protect our identity by retaining the name of Carbondale in the Library's official name. ML reported that the Community Bank and Trust Company was very pleased to grant the CPL $300,000 line of credit for the new building project.

ML also reported that Bob Tomaine from THE SCRANTON TIMES will meet with the Library Director and him on Tuesday next in order to gather information for an article on the new library building. A discussion of the support from the area media then took place. The Board agreed to submit all press releases about the new building to the local papers with a Wednesday release date, which will make it possible for THE CARBONDALE NEWS to publish any library related stories on the same day that the daily newspapers release those stories. This means that any release from the Library will have to be in the hands of THE CARBONDALE NEWS on a Friday or Monday.

With all business conducted, it was moved (Staple) and seconded (Loftus) that the meeting be adjourned. The motion carried and the meeting was adjourned at 9:00 P.M.

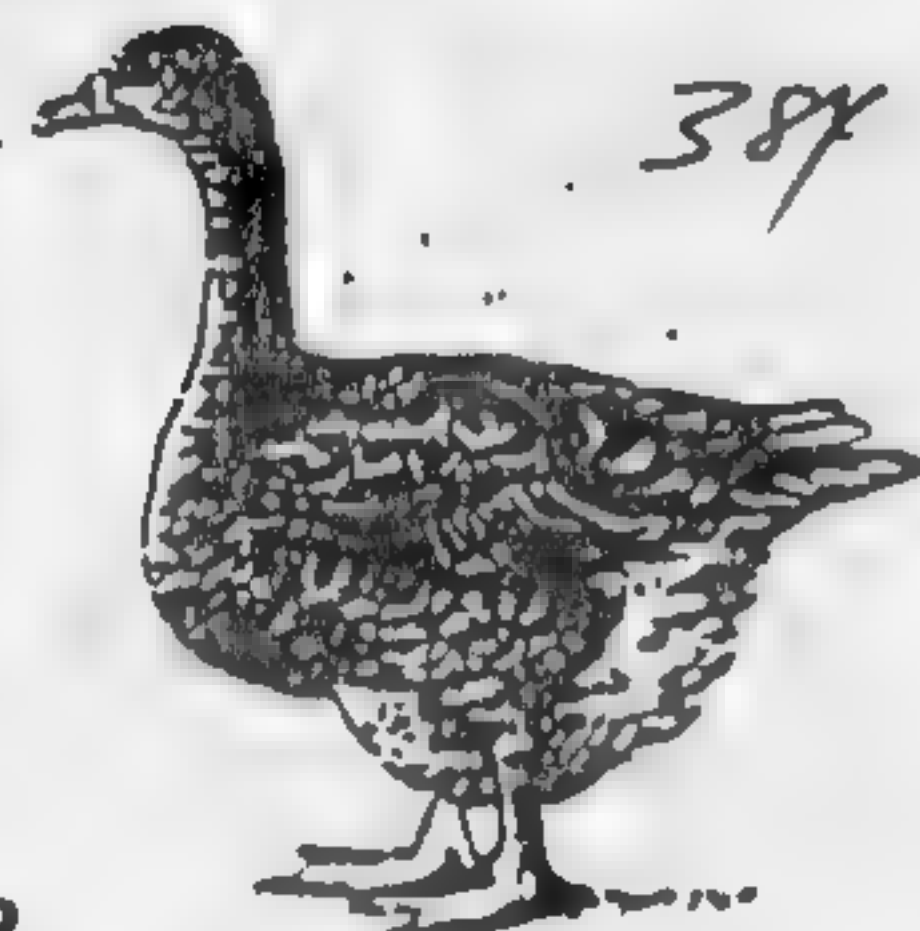

Respectfully submitted,

S. Robert Powell
Recording Secretary

3/13/92 - 940 A.M. Forest City Regional School for Dr. Mellow. Finally made up my mind on the Berke Poutry show entry: the 14 birds that will be shown have been selected:

12 standards	} 4 males 10 females
2 bantams

I will also take along some birds to sell, although I am not exactly certain which ones they will be:

Probably two pairs of Golden Campines, maybe some Blue old English Games;
maybe some of my Highflyers (pigeons).

There is no hurry in making the decision. It can be made on the day that I pack up for the departure.

The Golden-Laced Wyandotte and the Black Wyandotte are both hatching chicks this morning - right on schedule: one bantam Black

Wyandotte already out. The "big" arrivals will be the three standards under the Golden-faced Wyandotte hen. I am not sure what they will be. Hopefully a couple Black Orpington or Partridge Rocks — although standard Wyandottes of any color would be fine. What I am really hoping for are standard Partridge Rocks or Orpington.

Yesterday I set the old standard Silver-faced Wyandotte (13 eggs) and put 18 other eggs in the incubator. It would be lovely if about ten of those eggs turn out to be fertile and then hatch.

In a week or so, I will candle them and go from there.

3/14/92 - 7 P.M. Cecil & Mary Rose are out of the exhibition poultry "hobby." Hard to believe. We (DWP, DWP II, SRP) drove up today after lunch and had a very pleasant two hour visit. Bob Anket & Chuck Campfield now have all of the Rose flock - several hundred birds. I wonder when the transfer took place? Probably last fall. The Harford fair and The Wayne County fair and half a dozen other local fairs will not be the same without the birds of Cecil and Mary. We will have many cages to fill at Harford this year save the 150 birds from Cecil & Mary; de plume, Dick Walworth has cut back a great deal (4 breeders so he says). We will have to really push to get 350 birds, it seems. In past years there were well over 600. My first thought is that I should "fill the void" and declare myself a poultry husbandry — man de profession and acquire vast numbers of exhibition poultry, and let the chips fall where they may. Not exactly a practical thing to do, but then, when has practicality ever been that paramount in my life?

Cecil and Mary are both well and completely themselves: he at age 92+ and she in her 70's, surely. We had a grand time.

The poultry news here on the home front is good. Eight new chicks under two hens:

A) Golden-Laced Wyandotte:

- standard Black orpington
- " White Wyandotte (?)
- " Partridge Rock (?)
- bantam American Game
- " American Game

B) bantam Black Wyandotte:

- three of her own chicks.

I am very pleased to have the 3 standards from my own hen's eggs.

The very large white chick is either an Orpington or a Wyandotte (I'll examine its comb and legs more tomorrow); the little chipmunk colored chick is either a Golden-faced Wyandotte or a Partridge Rock (again, comb and legs will make it clearer tomorrow).

Another "standard" egg is due to hatch on 3/21; and maybe four more on 3/28 (I just now candled the eggs). De plus, I set 30 more eggs yesterday. So it appears that the bloodline of my show "standards" will be perpetuated.

3/16/92 - 9 A.M. The nasty cold weather continues. It started last Wednesday when the temperature plummeted from about  $50^{\circ}\text{F}$  to about  $15^{\circ}\text{F}$  in the course of the day — and it has been very cold since then. This morning it was  $4^{\circ}\text{F}$  when dad went out for his walk at dawn. The worst of it is apparently over and the temperature is expected to be about  $40^{\circ}\text{F}$  tomorrow — thank God. The temperature doesn't really concern me personally that much. What concerns me, of course, is the effect of the weather on my precious livestock. About a week ago, thinking that spring was definitely here, I moved around some birds & housed about 10 pairs of birds in the entrance way to the inner coop, where the temperature is not much different than it is outside. at night, I have been covering the cages and pen with plastic and blankets and all in well with the birds in the passage-way. In the inner sanctum, some of the old hens are "under the weather" a bit and some of the chicks have eye colds — nothing serious. I thoroughly medicated all concerned yesterday and the day before and I believe that all will be well by tomorrow. The Flying Tipplers, of course, are completely oblivious to the weather, no matter how hot or cold or damp or dry it gets. They are truly extraordinary in their resilience.

DWP II arrived in town on Friday and the activity level at home has been very high, of course, since his energetic arrival. He is on the point of being able to read and will soon be traveling at high speed through his ABC's.

I have a great deal of cleaning to do in the poultry house and will do so tomorrow if the weather is nice and sunny and if I am not substituting here at Forest City High School.

When I left for school this morning, Mom was doing the wash and Dad was banging away at the coal bin in the cellar in anticipation of the arrival of a load of coal some time today. All is well.

3/17/92 - F.C.R.S. — again; today for the industrial arts teacher. The call came late (7:15 A.M.) and I had to scramble about in high speed in order to get her on time. But I made it here shortly after 8:30, which was fine. I am very pleased that I "made the push" and cleaned out the poultry house thoroughly last night when I returned from F.C.R.S.; in the moonlight I carted out into the field — in the wheelbarrow — the dirty litter and spread it around by throwing it in double handfuls into the air. As odd as I am sure it sounds, it gives me great pleasure to engage in such pre-industrial behavior. The coop was in need of cleaning and if I had not done it last night (the whole process taken about 90 minutes) I would not have been able to clean it until tonight — and so I am glad it's done. In this cold and damp weather, it is very important to maintain a high degree of dryness in the coop to prevent colds and worse.

As it turns out, it is fairly easy to clean the coop after all the hens have gone to perch and are out of the way. Such is the fascinating mode of behavior of SRP on behalf of his exhibition poultry: crawling about in the moonlight, cleaning and tidying up in the poultry barn. But such pleasure it does give me; and the birds do respond to the positive care.

Right on schedule, the weather has moderated considerably; it snowed early this morning as the warm air moved into the area. It is not exactly balmy and spring-like, but it is much more bearable than the piercing, nasty, bitter coldness of the past 5 or 6 days. It is expected that the temperature will go up to about 50°F today. I can hardly wait. These past cold days have bothered me more than any of the cold weather all winter.

It appears that I am becoming one of the "specials" at F.C.R.S.; I am getting a fair number of calls to come here. Today is my 20th day here this year and my 7th day in March. Here is how this substituting affects my weekly unemployment check:

"Sub" no day ($60) —	receive $291 U.B
" 2 days ($120) —	" $288 "
" 3 " ($180) —	" $228 "
" 4 " ($240) —	" $168 "
" 5 " ($300) —	" $108 "

$$\text{sub 1 day: } $60 + $291 = $351$$

$$\text{" 2 " : } $120 + $288 = $408$$

$$\text{" 3 " : } $180 + $228 = $408$$

$$\text{" 4 " : } $240 + $168 = $408$$

$$\text{" 5 " : } $300 + $108 = $408$$

my weekly maximum is $408.00

400<sup>5.</sup>

Whether I "teach" two days or five,
I still "earn" 408.00; so it seems that two days of substituting per week is the ideal arrangement, although I will, of course, say yes to every call that comes in from Forest City H. S.

3 P.M. - it's been a diffident day;
I had hardly any time to myself; much of my time was spent screaming and yelling at the students to prevent them from killing themselves and destroying the shop.

S. Robert Powell
College of Liberal Arts
Penn State University
120 Ridge View Drive
Dunmore, PA 18512

Dear Dr. Powell:

Thank you for your interest in our faculty position in French. The position has now been filled, and our search has ended.

We were very impressed with your credentials, but we had a large number of qualified applicants. Our choice was a very difficult one.

We hope that you are successful in securing a new position in the near future. Again, thank you for your interest in North Central College.

Sincerely,

Phillip P. Flahive, Chair
French Search Committee

3/19/92 - 10:15 P.M.

Whenever I read or hear about the very frightening rate of growth of the world's population, and when I realize how real the urban push from NYC is on northeastern Pennsylvania these days, I become very protective of the open space here at The Homestead. Their openness must be preserved for many reasons not the least of which is the fact that their openness is a celebration of the great farm that James Russell and his son William Anderson Russell established here. When I am in the barn on the hill I feel very connected to this place's agrarian past. The upstairs of the barn is particularly inspiring: the beams, the wooden pegs that hold it all together, its massive size. I wonder if I will live the rest of my life here? Surely my retirement years will be spent here (all I need do now is find a job so that I can retire from something specific).

Six or eight inches of snow last night and today. Finally, tonight the wind, out of the East, has subsided. Much of the day the poultry house was cold inside and some snow flew in around cracks in the entrance hall area. The birds all need some sun. It has been much too long since there has been a sunny and warm day.

Discovered a Rose Comb Rhode Island Red Cockerel among the Radmacher Chicks! That's fine with me. The standard Partridge Rock's foot - which I have been "doctoring" for many weeks -- appear to be getting much better.

He is in fine form at present and I am counting on showing him at "Berke" a week from this coming Sunday. It is difficult to have show birds in the breeding pens and, at the same time, prepare to show them in the Spring show. Nevertheless, I will show 14 birds at Nesting (the "Berke" show) on 3/29/92, which is a Sunday. As it is the first show of the Spring season, I am, naturally, very excited about the show. I will have to wash a couple birds in the middle of next week.

3/20/92 - 8 P.M. Keeping lunacy in abeyance: an occasional necessity for all of us (I suppose). How do you do so? By proceeding very deliberately and methodically & by not allowing the lilliputians to triumph over you. All day long I have been on the point of screaming out loud with frustration/angst/incompletion: no job and no prospects; Mom is not feeling well and is acting very low;
I'm sick of the cold weather and want a warm sunny day so badly that I could almost weap for me; some of the chickens are still under the weather; I need a decent Chicken Coop; and on and on.
Many of these anxieties would disappear if I were to secure a job. It's wonderful to thumb your nose at the world, so to speak, but not so wonderful when the world thumbs its nose at you. I recall that when I have been in such "a state" in the past that I was able to work my way out of this "corner" if I drew up a list of the things that were bothering me: verbalize the annoyances, that's the solution or at least the road to the solution.

Rev. Norton Vail

Reverend Norton Samuel Vail, 88, Asheboro, N.C., died Thursday, March 19, 1992, at his home. His wife, the former Alta Mae Pierce, preceded him in death.

He was a member of Berean Baptist Church, Carbondale. He was a retired Baptist Minister and retired from the Pa. Department of Transportation as a bridge design engineer.

A memorial service will be held Sunday, March 22, at 4 p.m. at the Forrest Park Baptist Church, conducted by the Revs. Dale Robertson and Ron Chaney.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Norma Reece, Dunmore, and Mrs. June Wild, Honesdale; a son, Douglas N. Vail, at home; four grandchildren; four great-grandchildren.

A private graveside service will be held at Farmer Cemetery.

The family will be at the Forrest Park Baptist Church on Sunday from 3 to 4 p.m.

Memorial donations may be made to the Hospice of Randolph Co., P.O. Box 9, Asheboro, N.C., 27203, or to the charity of the donor's choice.

*Norton Vail was my scoutmaster in Troop 2, Carbondale.
He was a good man*

3/21/92 - 10 A.M. Another standard Partridge Rock has hatched. This one under an American Game bantam hen; she also hatched three bantam American Game. I am very pleased. Standard Partridge Rocks are a special favorite and I have some very good breeders, especially the old male, who was Champion American at York two years ago. I hope that he is the father and not the young cock (also a good bird), who was Reserve Champion of the show at Rochester last fall.

Mated the two best Flying Tappan pair this morning:

[ FTA-88-978 → + 3853
 FTA-90-1085 → + 340

also put together two additional pair of Tipplers and the old pair of Highflyers — all three of which will be used as feeders for the two best pair. I will give the eggs of the two best pair to two of the lesser pairs to hatch and raise. The two best pair will incubate dummy eggs for ten days and then I will start them over and they will lay again. That way I will be able to get four chicks from each of the two best hens in fast order. If I am able to get 4 chicks from each of the best pair in good order, I will probably then "settle" the hens and possibly also the cocks. In the meantime, I will be able to fly three excellent un-mated hem:

91-2483 - red (976/1085)

91-2478 - dark grizzle (976/1085)

90-1092 - yellow (340/812)

The first FTA Spring fly is five weeks away and I should have the three hem in great shape by then. I note that April 25-26 is also the date of the Sussex County poultry show, which will not prevent me from flying the birds either on the Saturday or the Sunday. On both days I can get the birds up very early (they will only fly on one of the days, of course) and be home from Augusta before dark to land the birds.

411

3/22/92 - 10:30 A.M. I am sick and tired of this unending winter / cold spring: temperatures in the 20's and low 30's and no sun and icy wind. The weather has been more or less unchanged for about 2 weeks and it is wearing me down. There is, of course, nothing to be done, except move south, and that doesn't seem like a real possibility. The weather is not so much an ordeal for SRP - it's my birds that I worry about. They are all in real need of sun and warmth. None of them are really sick but many of them are, like their master, worn out by the naggingly unpleasant cold-ness.

The titmice and high flyers all appear to have mated, which is not surprising. Besides, they have all, I think, learned

Where their nest boxes are. They<sup>2</sup> spent the entire day yesterday clashed in their breeding compartments / nest boxes and have all "fixed" on their corner of the wood. In about a week, they will all lay and get busy on hatching and rearing their young.
In the meantime, the three-member flying kit of hen and a couple female droppers are in the adjoining coop and their training will begin in earnest as soon as the weather makes it possible: fine week away in the first spring fly and I do want to participate, especially since I was unable to participate last year during my 6 months in Middleburg, PA.

413

March 23, 1992

Dear Jerry:

The 20 best flying times in each of the Spring series flys as well as the 20 best flying times--Official and Honor Systems--will, of course, be published in the upcoming (around April 1st) FTA BULLETIN. I'm sure that such lists are a good idea and I have the feeling that the participation by members in the flys this year will be better than last.

The only way that one could put together a list of best flying times for the contests in which any age birds can be flown would be to have all the relevant fly reports at hand. There are many members who have those reports for many years in the past. I have them from about 1984 on, for example. But I do not think that it is worth the effort to try to track down all the fly reports from the past in order to do so. The lists that you have produced are excellent and I wouldn't proceed any further than updating the current lists as warranted. Your answer to Smail Basic is right on target: it is not feasible to make up young and old bird lists because they have not been kept previously.

Thanks for your positive comments on the FTA envelopes. I also think that they are very impressive and I am anxious to see how the members respond when they receive the BULLETIN that is now in the works. I think that the envelopes convey the message that we are a highly organized group of professional breeders/flyers and not a bunch of amateurs. The officers should use the envelopes, I think, for all FTA business. Since they are dated 1992, they have to be used up during the year. I had enough printed for four or five BULLETINS, plus about 150 extra for your use and my use and Tim and Walter's use. So if you need more, just let me know.

I'm sure that there will be no problem in using the left over 1991 Timer's Report Forms for 1992. The important thing, as you know, is to keep close account of who has paid for the flys and who has not. A flyer who has not paid entry fees for any flys can not decide, after he has flown his kit on a particular day and they have done well, that he would like to enter that fly, and then, out of the blue send in to the Central Timer a completed fly report and payment for that fly.

I will participate in 8 of the flys this year. I will not fly in the Fall II fly (Sept. 26-27) and I will not fly in the Stock Fly (Oct. 24-25). A check for $12 is enclosed.

I haven't had any specific word from Walter on membership renewals, but my impression is that they are coming in good. In addition, in the past couple of months there have been about 10 new members, which is a very positive sign, I think.

Usually I put together my breeders in mid-February but this year I postponed the beginning of the breeding season until this week because of very cold weather. I will breed from four pairs and expect to raise about sixteen young birds. The breeders are now at the stage of carrying straw and building nests, which I love to watch. Sometimes I watch them do so for several hours at a stretch.

Best Regards,

Robert

3/24/92 Forest City High School — for Mr. Cici.
My 21st day as a substitute here this year. Delighted to be here, but at the moment I have all I can do to stay awake. I got up at 6 A.M. so that I could do my poultry chores without too much rushing about — which I hate to do, whether it's at 6 A.M. or at 4 P.M.; and I have just had lunch here and the combination of food and lack of rest = fatigue.
I'm sure that I could fall asleep
if I had the opportunity.

Yesterday I baby-sat for DWP II and we had a very busy and productive day:

- In the morning we had coffee in my room; I worked on FTA materials + DWP II drew;
we went to the Post office at 11:30 AM.

- lunch with Mom & Dad (baked chicken, sweet potatoes, salad) <sup>at 2 PM</sup>
- Mom went to see Dr. Simpson (naturally Dad drove) to get something to get rid of her lingering cold; DWP II and I went up to the barn and cleaned out the poultry area. We had a grand time; DWP II had his own wheelbarrow & worked along with me.
- About 4 PM we returned to the house and made cupcakes: yellow cake with chopped walnuts with  $\frac{1}{2}$  almond on the top of each. I put the batter in the cups and Donald put the pecan half on top of each one. Then he licked the bowl and somehow managed to get batter all over his face, neck, hands and hair. We were seated at the kitchen table, eating hot cupcakes and drinking coffee, when Mom & Dad returned. With new medicine, Mom's spirits were revived and she seemed much more herself. She commented on how pleasant it was to come into the house and smell something baking — which is exactly  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the reason why DWP II and I made cupcakes. I knew that they would be back from the Doctor's about 430 - 5 PM and I knew that Cupcakes baking would be a cheerful smell to return to. The other  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the reason why I 417 4.

decided <sup>that</sup> OWP II and I would bake cupcakes in that I wanted OWP II to have a "home and hearth" experience here in Carbondale. It is important that such sensual imprinting be done early in life.
The cupcakes were great. Mom had ten of them in good order & then decided to put a couple of them aside so that she and Dad could have them for breakfast.
The cupcake project was an unqualified success.

Production of the current FTA Bulletin is now underway and I am making wonderful progress.
I should be able to get it in the mail by 4/1/92.

Dear Dr. Powell:

I thought you would like to know that Washington and Jefferson College has successfully concluded its search in French. We are pleased that Dr. Katrine R. Pflanze has accepted the position of Assistant Professor. Dr. Pflanze is a graduate of Mills College who earned her Ph.D. in 16th-century French poetry at Yale University. She excels in undergraduate teaching.

Choosing which applicants to interview was, as always, a process made difficult by the excellence of the submissions. Your credentials were among the many fine applications we received. I appreciate your interest in teaching at Washington and Jefferson and hope that you have obtained a position at an institution deserving of your talents.

Sincerely,

March 26, 1992

Dear Murray:

Enclosed are copies of two letters: (1) Allen Lupkiewicz's letter of 02-18-92 to Walter Wiechec, (2) an anonymous letter, dated 03-22-92, addressed to me. A quick comparison of the printing in both letters indicates, it seems safe to conclude, that the anonymous letter writer is Allen Lupkiewicz.

Lupkiewicz's letter to Walter was forwarded to me for a response. When I wrote to Lupkiewicz, on 03-13-92, I sent him two FTA BULLETINS: 03-15-91 and 12-27-91. In the 03-15-91 BULLETIN there is a copy of the FTA membership list and that is how Lupkiewicz got your name and address.

Lupkiewicz's interest in Tipplers, based on his 02-18-92 letter, seemed legitimate. As it turns out, it appears that he is just a trouble maker and a coward (who else but cowards write anonymous letters?).

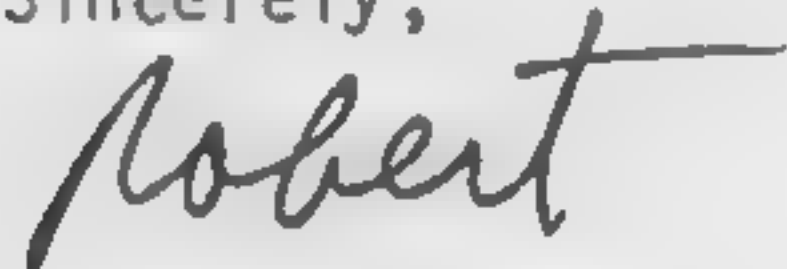

I would be willing to bet a fair amount of money, even though I am not much of a gambler, that the fault lies with Lupkiewicz and that he is simply passing on the fault for poor loft management on to you. By writing to me (and possibly other officers and members of the FTA) Lupkiewicz is, of course, attempting to sully your name and the name of the FTA. Lupkiewicz will not succeed in so doing if that is his intention. I had thought of including a notice in the about-to-be-published FTA BULLETIN that Allen Lupkiewicz was interested in buying some Tipplers from breeders/flyers in the South, etc., but I will not do so. Lupkiewicz, from my perspective and that of the FTA, is persona non grata.

As Secretary of the FTA, I am prepared to write to Lupkiewicz and explain to him that it frequently happens when birds from one loft are introduced to another loft that colds and other maladies are passed along. It's one of the risks that we all take in acquiring new birds from other fanciers etc. etc. Or perhaps I could write to Lupkiewicz and tell him that he is, in effect, barking up the wrong tree: if he has a problem with birds that he bought from you that he should write to you and not to the FTA.

In the meantime, be assured that I will not take any action until I hear from you.

It has been a long and unusually cold Spring up here, even though the Winter was relatively mild, and I am very anxious for some of your warm southern temperatures to make their way up here.

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell

PS. I have just figured out what the "return address" on the envelope in which the anonymous letter was sent means: Disappointed Pigeon Flyer.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Henry J. Loftus, Jr. is a highly respected, well known and admired member of the community of Carbondale and of the Upper Lackawanna Valley. For the past ten years, he has served as Vice President of the Carbondale Historical Society and Museum, an organization which he was instrumental in founding. In that capacity, he has consistently demonstrated a high level of management expertise and, together with the other principals in the Society, has created a vital and soundly managed educational and historical not-for-profit organization whose primary purpose is community service. His skills in financial management (financial planning, budgetary management, annual reports, tax reporting) are, in fact, responsible for the sound financial position of the Historical Society today. As an officer in the Society, he has had broad experience in working with a wide variety of constituencies, including volunteers.

In addition to his work with the Historical Society, Henry Loftus serves the community of Carbondale as a member of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Public Library, which, at present, is planning for the construction of a major new library facility in the city of Carbondale. His commitment to the betterment of the community and the Upper Lackawanna Valley is further demonstrated by his service on the Lackawanna County Cultural Affairs Commission, an organization whose impact on the cultural vitality of the region is well known.

Henry Loftus is a gentleman and an exemplary member of the community and it is with pleasure that I recommend him for the position of Executive Director of the Carbondale/Forest City Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Sincerely,

Dr. S. Robert Powell, President
Carbondale Historical Society and Museum

Dear Robert:

Hearing from you is always a pleasure, but twice in one week is doubly so. Not having heard from you regarding the GET TO KNOW YOUR FELLOW MEMBERS form, I took no further action on it. However, I have hurriedly drawn up a Form per your request. You can make any changes on it that you deem advisable. I tried to keep it simple, but I am not sure if I left enough room on each line for a reply. Feel free to change it any way you want.

As stated previously, I will not be able to participate in any of the old bird flys this year due to lack of birds. I have only two pairs down on eggs right now, and I hope that I can come up with some good youngsters. This is the second time that I have had to start up all over again.

I have made some changes in my loft, adding more room, and I have made a separate pen to hold two white fantails which I hope to get shortly. I am tired of losing my best birds because they fly into darkness, and I am going to train the new youngsters to droppers. I have been reading everything I can about the proper use of droppers, and I hope that using these droppers will work for me. I don't know why I didn't try it sooner.

I am very happy to see that you will participate in eight flys this year, and I am enclosing eight Reports for your use. I do keep very close tabs on who pays for the flys, etc. As a matter of fact, I keep a Report showing the date I receive a letter requesting Reports, number of Reports wanted, Amount, Date Reports mailed out, etc. It is pretty concise and I do not think anyone could get away with something. (Of course, there is always a chance.)

I, too, love to watch the birds. I hope to retire in September of this year and have more time with my feathered friends. I am eagerly looking forward to it. I would also like to spend more time fishing and working in my wood shop.

Incidentally, do you type your own letters? If so, they are excellent. Is it done on a Word Processor? I haven't typed in many years and I use an old Royal typewriter that I got from school. Come to think of it, it is probably the same old typewriter that I used in High School way back when.

Well Robert, I must sign off for now, but I want you to know that I think that you do one great job for the FTA, and I know that I personally appreciate all the advice and help that you give me.

Good luck in '92,

Jerry

Berks Poultry Fanciers' Spring Show, March 29, 1992

The first show of the 1992 Spring season and naturally the anticipatory excitement was great. I entered 14 birds and took them all, even though a couple of them were slightly out of feather. Two "big" wins:

- Champion Continental, on a Golden Campine pullet (at least ten in the class)
- Reserve Champion Mediterranean, on a Single Comb Black Minorca hen (not 25 in the class, but there were at least 10)

No Master Exhibitor points for SRP because of the show, but the Continental win will merit an APA pin.

Rick Poor judged the standard fowl and made some bad mistakes. A standard Australorp cock, a very nice bird, was entered as an Orpington and was named BV and BB and Champion English. What an outrage! I think that there was some collusion between Wm. Bacon (owner of the bird) and Rick Poor. The Australorp was not even close to appearing like an Orpington. I make known to about a half dozen people my outrage at the dumb mistake made by Poor. Although it probably was not a mistake. It very probably was the result of a deal between Bacon and Poor. The maddening thing is that there is little that can be done without jeopardizing my exhibition career. If I protest, regardless of whether I will win or not, I will be unofficially penalized by the judging establishment for daring to question a judge. I know George Schroeder well enough to tell him the story and I did so. Don Nelson was Poor's clerk and Nelson had some birds in the show and Nelson more or less judged his own birds, which is another thing that irritated some of us very much.

No one minds submitting to criteria that are objectively applied to all. But to have to deal with heavy handed and overt sleaziness is more than a little difficult to endure.

DWP and I left here at about 6 A.M. and arrived at the show hall at about 8:40 A.M. I would have preferred to be there about 40 minutes earlier. The day went very quickly and was very pleasant. I knew about half the exhibitors and they knew me. Had a pleasant visit with Ralph Britt, who is known by practically everyone. He and George Schroeder know each other and I saw them talking to each other and went up and said to both of them: "You don't mean to tell me that the two of you guys know each other." George: "We've known each other probably since before you were born." SRP: "That's my cue to leave," and away I went amid a three-sided, warm-hearted laugh.

I was very pleased to sell the four Golden Campines that I took to sell: four of them for $35.00, which is not bad. I now have two adult Golden Campines left and they are either full brother and sister or half brother and sister. They have the same father (now dead), of that I am sure, and both of the old hens (possible mothers of the two Campines that I now have) are also dead. That seems to be a problem with Campines. They are not especially long-lived. Both of the adults that I now have have been Champion Continental at least once. I also have two cockerels and three pullets from Duane Urch in Campines and they are un-related (I hope) to the birds that I have, so if I decide to breed more Campines the blood lines will not be too close.

Had a chat with Barney Volak, who was selling hatching eggs. Told him that I was having difficulty getting fertile eggs from my standards. He recommended two things: Terramycin and Cod Liver Oil. Give the former at the rate of one teaspoon per gallon; sprinkle some of the latter over their food. Cod liver oil works better than wheat germ oil, says Barney. What wonderfully useful advice.

About 11 A.M., DWP telephoned from Penn State to say that there was a notice in his mail box there for me from Dr. Sherbine, asking me if I wanted to teach Humanities I there this summer. The Summer Session goes from May 26 to July 20; the class is Monday and Wednesday from 10:45 to 12:25, which is fine with me. What lovely news! The week of May 26th will be my 24th week of receiving unemployment benefits, and the PSU salary will not negatively affect my weekly check from the government. Whether or not I will be able to collect extended benefits following my 26th week of benefits (week ending June 13th) is not clear. Whatever the case, I am positively delighted by the Penn State possibility. If there are not at least 5 students in the class, it will be canceled. See the copy of the KBS memo to SRP of March 27th, attached hereto.

Spent a lot of time cleaning and tidying up in the hen house today. The coop was in need of a good cleaning. I had the hens all out as I cleaned and rearranged and they all had a good time, naturally. It started to snow a little and then cold rain and they all came back inside for shelter. They are nobody's fool, that's for certain.

Tomorrow, and again on April 10th, I will substitute at Forest City H. S. Mrs. Cyzeski telephoned for the second date when I was up at the barn. Delighted.

Thank you very much for your info. packed Pigeon Review. I enjoyed reading each article.

I appreciate you allowing me to borrow them and hopefully I can pass them on to another breeder some day.

I was happy to hear that I may fly birds out of my loft set up. I've got some promising squeakers in the nest right now and I hope to have them ready later in the season. My old bud Brit is has been cut down to 3 and as luck would have it, these are the 3 of 4 birds that were not banded because of a problem with a band order from Forge. late in the season last year. So I have a nice kit, but I can't legally fly them. anyway, they give me pleasure just flying for practice.

Hopefully you will see me in competition around May and June if I'm lucky. Thanks again, I really appreciated your kindness.

March 31, 1992

Dear Bill:

Whenever an issue of POULTRY PRESS arrives, as the April 1992 issue did today, everything else gets put on the back burner, so to speak, and I carefully look through the entire issue to get a rough idea of the issue's contents and to plan my poultry reading for the month. My inclination, of course, is to read the whole issue in a couple of days (and I used to do that), but now I have learned to pace myself and I only allow myself to read a couple of pages a day. The pleasures associated with reading the issue are, therefore, extended over the whole month.

Invariably, I read your column and Nona Shearer's News and Notes from the APA right off the bat. Yes, I agree with you about sun-less Winter days. As long as the sun comes out, I don't care how cold it gets, and neither do my birds. It's those gray Winter days when the temperature is about 15F and there is no sun that really drive me crazy. After about 10 such days in a row late this Winter, I was on the point of packing up myself and my birds and moving to Texas or Mexico or somewhere where it was warm and dry. But now the first stages of Spring appear to be here and those "difficult" Winter days are more or less forgotten.

I, too, had considerable difficulty getting fertile eggs this Winter. The spell seems to have been broken, however, and fertility is now good and the chicks are hatching about as fast as I can deal with them--and I have a great appetite for dealing with young chicks. To the extent that I can, I use setting hens to hatch and start most of my chicks, which means that at any given time I might have 12 to 15 hens with chicks to take care of (in addition to the young birds older than a couple months and the old birds). Does anyone ever have enough pens? I never seem to. I think that if I had a coop the size of a football field that I would still have difficulty, at times, trying to figure out just where to put this or that bird, those breeders, that hen and her chicks, and so on. It's crazy, of course, but I do love it.

During my initial go-through of this month's POULTRY PRESS, I was fairly certain that I would see one of the articles that I sent to POULTRY PRESS in recent months: "Just for the Record" (mailed in early December 1991), "American Game Bantams" (mailed in early February 1992). Is it likely that one or both of them will be published in POULTRY PRESS? If the answer is "yes," that's great; if the answer is "no," that's OK too. But one way or the other, I would like to know. Since neither article contains "dated" information, it makes very little difference when they appear in print: this Spring, six months from now, a year from now.

After I wrote "Just for the Record," and before I sent a copy to POULTRY PRESS, I decided to send a copy to Bill Holland, Bert Pals, and Carl Freeman to find out their response to the article and to ask them if they thought that I should send the article to POULTRY PRESS. Bill Holland and Bert Pals were very enthusiastic in their response to the article and strongly encouraged me to send the article to POULTRY PRESS. Carl Freeman did not respond to my letter. I mention this, in defense of the article, because I think that it can serve a very positive educational

Bill Wulff

function. Maybe the article is too long? If that's the case (and you decide that the article is a "go"), the article could easily be published in two parts in successive issues. The same is true for the article on American Game Bantams.

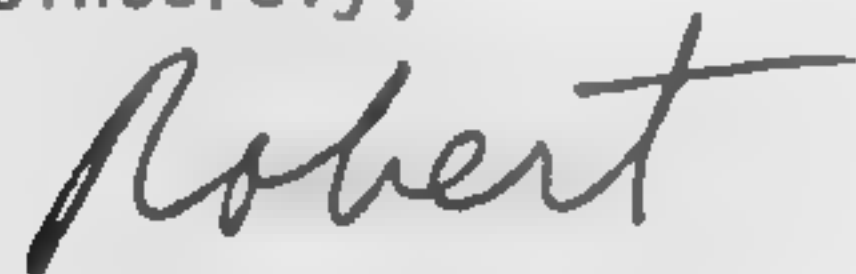

Be assured that I am fully prepared to be told that neither article has been accepted for publication in POULTRY PRESS. In the course of my academic and professional life, I do a fair amount of writing for journals and books and I am always prepared to receive a "yes" or a "no" from a publisher.

Another motivating factor behind this letter is this: I have a couple more completed articles on poultry and I am wondering if I should send them to you for consideration. Possibly the kind of articles that I am writing at present are not the kind that you want for POULTRY PRESS?

Leaving all that aside, I will now turn my attention to the April 1992 issue of POULTRY PRESS. Wouldn't it be wonderful if POULTRY PRESS could be published on a weekly basis? If it were, perhaps my insatiable appetite for reading about poultry could be taken care of.

My best to you.

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell

Supplement No. 4, March 21, 1986--Dec. 31, 1986 " " "

The 10 rolls of microfilm of OPUS 40 of S. Robert Powell are a record of SRP's life from Jan. 1, 1975, when, seated in the Music Room at the Bobst Library at New York University, he began writing PARADE HARMONIES: A DIALECTICAL SELF-PORTRAIT (written in the period 1-15-75--7-15-75; published 8-15-1975), up to December 31, 1986, when, seated at his marble top table at Elkdale, he celebrated the arrival of the New Year. Contained on Rolls 1-6 (among many other documents) are all of the published issues of NORTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA (Volume I, Number 1, August 15, 1979--Volume IV, Number 1, August 18, 1982).
2. DELAWARE AND HUDSON (PENNSYLVANIA DIVISION) BLUEPRINTS, MAPS AND DRAWINGS. One roll of 35 mm. original microfilm.
3. THE RENAISSANCE AND CUBIST CONCEPTIONS OF SPACE AND ART IN THE NINETEENTH-CENTURY FRENCH NOVEL. SRP's Ph.D. dissertation; published in 1974. This microfilm is a copy of the original 35 mm. microfilm that is owned by Xerox University Microfilms, Ann Arbor, MI. In many respects, SRP's Doctoral Dissertation and COMPARATIVE AESTHETICS: A WORKBOOK are the end products of all SRP's formal academic training. They represent/constitute, therefore, a portrait of SRP in the period 1961-1978.
4. COMPARATIVE AESTHETICS: A WORKBOOK. Published in 1978. Original 16 mm. microfilm.
5. PROCEEDINGS OF THE COMMITTEE TO RESTORE CARBONDALE CITY HALL, INC. AND THE CARBONDALE HISTORICAL SOCIETY AND MUSEUM, INC., November 1981--March 1983. Original 16 mm. microfilm.

OUBLIETTE ANYONE ?

There are a few people registered for Art History 111 who seem destined to get an F.
If you think you are in this category, now is the time for you to see me so that we can discuss your options.

oubliette 1. A secret dungeon in the deepest parts of a medieval stronghold, having as its only entry a trapdoor through which prisoners were dropped; used for persons condemned to perpetual imprisonment or to perish secretly.
2. A secret pit, usually in the floor of a dungeon, into which an unsuspecting person could be dropped and thus destroyed.

C, upper dungeon; E, lower dungeon, with access from C by the trapdoor A;
G, oubliette, into which a victim could be dropped from C or E through the open trapdoors in the floors

04-04-1992, 8:10 P.M.

Received my Federal Income Tax refund for 1991 today: $1,418.97, which is excellent news. The JVB loan debacle has been mollified a little by my declaration of that loss as a short-term capital loss, which has allowed me to get back this refund. Every little bit helps a a great deal. I will receive, probably on Monday, two Unemployment checks, #14 for $288 and #15 for $291. I am guaranteed 26 checks (there may be extensions) which means that I have 11 weeks to go. Without the unemployment checks, I would be in very precarious financial waters at present, since I am, as one says, in between positions.

Had my photograph taken today at 4 P.M. at Craige's Studio in Montrose at 52 Church Street. The photograph will be for the 1992 Harford Fair Premium List. SRP's photo will appear, along with that of Anson Tiffany and Cecil Rose, in the Superintendent section of the Poultry Department. It appears that I am making my way into the inner circles of Harford Fair--at long last. The young man who took my photograph today is a nice guy and he took five or six photographs and I will select one for the Fair book. I have the intention of having some extra prints made up for my personal use if the photographs turn out OK. We shall see. There is a Harford Fair meeting on Monday night and I am well pleased to have had my photograph taken before that meeting because I am sure that Phyllis Ridgeway will want to know if the photograph has been taken. At Monday's meeting, it would be clear which cover design has been selected for this year's Premium List. I submitted several designs and other people submitted designs. There was much popular support for my designs, but I have the sneaking feeling that other people will lobby behind the scenes for their designs, which will put mine out of the running.

Dad was in a ceremonial mood today and decided that we would have Lobster Tails for lunch.

I discovered that the deer are eating my tulips that are just coming through the ground in the flower beds in the front yard. It's an outrage. The next thing, the deer will be sleeping on the back porch. There are so many of them around that they have become pests. There should, I think, be an open season on them for about five years to get the numbers under control.

Spent the whole day on Thursday "sugaring off." I had about 25 gallons of sap and boiled it down over a wood fire that I established out by the gray barn foundation. I had a grand time. It snowed quite heavily as I worked. I thoroughly smelled of wood smoke by the end of the day. I have about three quarts of maple syrup as a result of the boiling down. It looks fine and tastes delicious. I will have to filter it a couple more times to get out the bits of wood ash and so on that inevitably get into the boiling down pots during the reduction process. The weather has not been excellent for the sap to run but it is running. I hope to have another boiling down session next week when DWP II is here for the week. I will get him involved in the process and I'm sure that he will have a grand time.

A strapping American Game Bantam chick hatched out in the incubator on 04-01-92, right on schedule. He (she) is down in the box in the cellar with about a dozen other chicks. There are four "standard" eggs that are fertile under the old Silver-Laced Wyandotte that is setting up in the barn. That is good news. A couple of them are White Wyandotte eggs; it would be lovely if a couple of them were Black Orpington eggs. We shall see very soon as they are due to hatch on 04-11-92.

DWP II will come for a week on 04-12-92, and then for four months on May 1st. That will be grand. We will all have an action-packed, old-fashioned, memory-laden summer together.

GRISWOLD FEMALE LINE "LADY TAFEL" INFORMATION FORM

Please write a brief (500 words or less) paragraph listing what you consider to be the most important information about the family listed on the reverse side. Please type, or print clearly, so that the information will be transcribed accurately.

The Griswold family of northeastern Pennsylvania descends from the American Revolutionary War soldier, John Griswold (1754-1843; #375A in Michael Griswold line in Volume III) and his wife, Elizabeth Crittenden (1761-1851), who were married in October 1790 in Sandisfield, MA, and who, in the winter of 1813-1814, together with their six sons (John, b. 07-09-1792, m. Louisa Johnson; Francis, b. 11-14-1793, m. Jane Loomis; Orrin, b. 04-09-1796, m. Lois Deming; Sumner, b. 08-20-1798, m. Clarissa Gelatte; Horace, b. 11-15-1800, m. Louisa McKnight; and Sedate, b. 10-01-1802, m., first, Julia Burns, and, second, Nancy ? ) moved to Clinton Township, Wayne County, PA, where they were among the pioneer settlers of the region. The family name is listed on the large conglomerate stone at the entrance to the Clinton Center Baptist Church Cemetery, wherein are interred the earthly remains of many members of the Griswold family.

The Griswolds of northeastern Pennsylvania have always been proud of their goodly heritage and annual reunions of the descendants of John and Elizabeth (Crittenden) Griswold have been held since 1906. The complete minutes of those reunions, which include a complete list of all persons present at each reunion, from 1906 to 1980, together with a 100+ page typed list of the descendants of John Griswold and Elizabeth Crittenden, was published in Volume II, Number 2 (November 19, 1980) of the historical quarterly, NORTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA, which was published in Carbondale, PA. The 86th annual reunion of the descendants of John and Elizabeth (Crittenden) Griswold will take place in the Moosic Grange Hall in Clinton Township, Wayne County, PA, on August 15, 1992. The officers of the Griswold Reunion are: Francis H. Curtis III, President; S. Robert Powell, Secretary; Donald W. Powell, Treasurer. Detailed minutes of all of the Griswold Reunions, 1981-1991, have been published in the GRISWOLD REUNION NEWSLETTER, Volume I, Number 6 of which was published on August 17, 1991.

Dear Mrs. Ridgeway:

At Monday night's Harford Fair meeting, you remarked that if anyone had any ideas for a cover for this year's Premium List that they should speak up.

Enclosed are five possibilities. If you should decide that none of these possibilities is what you're looking for, I assure you that my feelings will not be hurt in the slightest. Whatever your decision, I would like to have back the five originals of the engravings when you are through with them.

I must say that I do like the idea of a single image on the cover. Big animals, especially horses, are always crowd pleasers and so four of the five possibilities show horses. The team of oxen are also impressive. (Given my fondness for poultry, I could have included MANY poultry illustrations, but decided to go with the big quadrupeds.)

Cordially,

Robert

4/6/92 - at tonight's Fair meeting, Phyllis announced that one of my 5 cover proposals has been accepted for the cover of the 1993 Harford Fair Premium List!
The engraving I have won with is the wonderful plowing scene.

The cover design submitted by the granddaughter of a Fair Board member was selected for this year's book (politics! politics! politics!) in "Close competition." One of my designs / entries will be used in 1993. That's fine with me.

✓ [I watched the crooked balloting that resulted in the grand daughter's win.]

4/6/92 - Forest city. Mum came in and woke me up at about 6:45 A.M.; I never heard the phone. SRP dashed about and did his poetry chores & put up the kit of Tippler here that I will fly in the FTA competition on 4/25-26. A beautiful morning for flying - but a little cold. The birds went way up and kitted well. With any luck they should do well in the spring FTA fly. I am very anxious to have them participate since I was unable to fly them at all last flying season. Made it to F.C.R.S. by 8:30 A.M. and have had a very remarkable day:

Mr. Cervante is the Choir / Driver Education teacher. He has only 3 Classroom classes: 4-5-6 (1203-2:36) and the rest of the time I have been free. Spent some time in the library and then did some Xeroxing and organized my "desk" and then went into "town" to do errands: post office, bank, grocery store. Returned to school at 11:30 AM and went to lunch! I'll have plait. The last class of the day is also a free period - and so I will leave early. I went to the bank to deposit, among other items, my Federal tax refund: $1418.97. I am very pleased that the refund was paid sans question— not there was anything irregular about it, but I was more or less prepared to have to "defend" my return. DWP will pick up the 4/1/92 issue of the FTA Bulletin at PDQ today and I will collate, fold, staple & insert in envelopes the issue for mailing: tomorrow. I am very pleased to have it out of the way: it's a 14-page issue and is packed with news and information.

4/8/92<sup>486</sup>

Walter-

Please re-imburse me for the following FTA expenses:

* 81.20 - printing 4/1/92 Bulletin
63.85 - postage - mailing 4/1/92 Bulletin
2.12 - gummed labels
14.38 - miscellaneous postage

The Official publication of

UNITED ORPINGTON CLUB

Devoted to all Orpingtons, Standard and Bantam, and to the Breeder's of this fine fowl.

APRIL 1992

FROM THE SECRETARY:

I think we are well on our way to bringing THE UNITED ORPINGTON CLUB back to the land of the living. We have over 25 members that have paid their dues for 1992. This is only a quarter of the way to the 100 + that we had when we drifted into inactivity. We are sending this issue of the ALL-ORP to all the names on our old mailing list with a reminder to some that they will loose their membership if we don't hear from them. Not all those we hear from are from our mailing list. Our add and articles in the POULTRY PRESS are getting some new blood. This is what we need to keep us going.

It is surprising to me, the number of requests we are getting for meets. I know we have had at least three for a District 5 meet, (IL IA MN WI ND & SD). I send them on to our District Directors, and a letter to those requesting the meets explaining that our District and State people award all meets, except the National, in our club. The National goes to the club hosting the A.P.A. National. I also tell them that THE UNITED ORPINGTON CLUB doesn't have the resources to furnish awards for these meets. However we will furnish certificates to the BB and BV if there are over 10 Orpingtons shown and the winner is a member of the U. O. C. I think we have had requests for over ten meets.

It seems like I am always suffering from foot in mouth disease. In looking over my correspondence I know of at least three letters where I was asking for forgiveness. The first was for missing a member at our annual meeting in Vancouver. The second for trying to have an election without printing the request for candidates in the ALL-ORP. The third was for giving credit to the Standard Buff Orps. for winning BB and Best English and not mentioning the Standard White Orps. for their wins. This is a Learning experience for me and I am afraid I will ruffle a few more feathers before I am through. I want you all to know I don't do it intentionally and I welcome any constructive criticism you may have. Don't worry about hurting my feelings. Before I retired, I was in supervision in an industrial plant for over 30 years, and I am used to getting it from both the top and the bottom.

ELECTION

Our By-Laws tell us we should have an election every year. The last election we had was in 1989. It is time for another one. Our president, Chris Haese, has changed employment and does not want to remain as President. I was only appointed Secretary/Treasurer on an interim basis until we could have an election. We don't have Directors for: Dist. 4 (KY VA NC WV & TN), Dist. 9 (AK ID MT OR WA WY & HI), and Dist. 12 (AL FL SC & Bermuda). I have heard by the grapevine that our director in district 1 (CT ME MA RI NH & VT) has sold his birds and is going to Florida. We wish him well if that is a true story. He can't get away from us that easy. We need a director in Dist. 12. We need a candidate for Vice President, one for Recording Secretary, and one for an Election Commissioner. Lets hear from you folks, if I don't you will have me in trouble with my Wife for making long distance calls to try and talk some of you into taking the jobs. Remember the Sec./Treas. job is open you could get stuck with it. Please have your nominations in by Apr. 15, 1992.

NATIONAL MEET OF THE UNITED ORPINGTON CLUB:

Our national meet is set in our By-Laws to be at the sight of the A.P.A. National. This year it will be in Columbus, Ohio on Nov. 13, 14, and 15. The Club will donate $10.00 for the champion Orpington and $5.00 to best of variety in each of the other three varieties. Bantams and large fowl shall compete for each of the awards. That is only a total of $25.00 for a National Meet. It is too late to change it for this year, but if I hear from enough of you members we could put it on the election ballot to increase that to $25.00 for Standard Orps. and $25.00 for Bantams in future National Meets. I don't think we want to go any more than $50.00 total. In the questionnaires we sent out there seemed to be more folks in favor of Promoting the Orpington breed than giving what little money we have away at shows.

We have a letter from Mike Stichler 1120 S. R. 603 Greenwich, Ohio 44837. He is inquiring about our plans for the National. I think as club members, those that can, should dig down in our pockets and donate some awards for those members that win at Columbus. I plan to give something for the best Orpington Bantam shown by a Club Member. All awards are for United Orpington Club members only. Send your awards direct to Mike Stichler. Mention they are for the Orpington Meet. He must have them by the end of June. Their Catalogue will be in the September issue of Poultry Press.

I hope to be able to attend this show. My wife and I will include it in a trip to that part of the country to check on some family history. If we do this we will not be able to take any birds with us. We will try and have an Orpington Club display even if I am not there.

→ ROBERT POWELL WINS

ALICE IMEL REPORTS

Alice and her family, Husband Wayne, and daughters April, Sheri, and Lisa have all four varieties of both Standard and Bantam Orpingtons. The Girls were featured as Junior exhibitors in a recent issue of Poultry Press. They all enjoy the Orps. and get their share of wins. Because of uncertain conditions they are offering all their Standard Blue and White Orps. for sale. Alice Imel, Rt. 1 Box 122 A, Home, KS 66438 913-799-3337

C.P.A.C. MINUTES

The March meeting was held on March 8, at Terri and Dave Turley's home. The following members were present: Wally & Rose Casazza, Jeff Kalie, Sam Forbes, Harold Strawser, Craig Russell, Dave Potter, Vic Corson, George Yurko and, of course, Dave and Terri Turley and children.

Bernie Petry, our publicity chairman, has received some special awards and items for the auction and raffle table. A letter from him is included in this newsletter.

The following meets have been confirmed: U.S. Cochin, Old English Game, Dorking Regional Meet, National Call Duck Breeders of America, Crested Fowl Fanciers, Americana Breeders Club, National Leghorn, National Frizzle, Japanese Bantam Breeders Association. Others are pending.

Wilma Smith is doing her normal promotion of the show. We need donations for the raffle and food stand. So far I have one donation of Bar B Que by Rose Casazza.

Craig received money from (David) Hartman Hatchery for a trophy.

Some things discussed at the meeting were that we need a lot more trophies for pigeons if we want to attract more pigeon breeders to our show. Entries will have to close early to be able to order the right amount. Since pigeon shows are run differently and classes are different, you pigeon guys will have to bear with us. Hopefully, by next year we'll have everything ironed out.

Also, we had some discussion about designing a club logo. This will be discussed more at a later date.

I want to treat the pigeon fanciers fairly by including an article each month about you or some breed or variety of pigeon you raise. So if anyone has anything they would like to share: articles, photos, breed charts showing the ideal bird of a certain breed or variety, please send it to me.

"News Flash" from the Berks show: Congratulations to Robert Powell who had best Continental on a Golden Campine Hen.

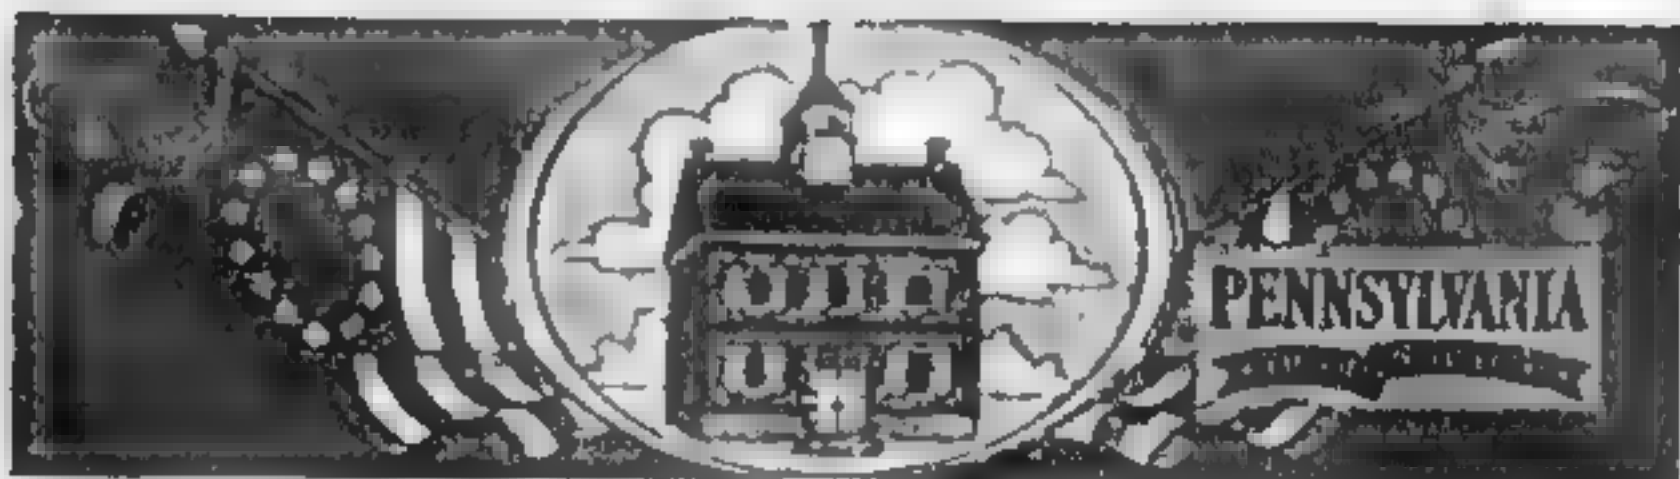

The next meeting will be held in the poultry building at the Bloomsburg Fairgrounds on Saturday, May 11, 1992. Come join in the fun of preparing the building for our show and sale. Dave Turley has hinted that a tasty treat will be awarded to all good workers. The building will open at 10:00 a.m. for any early arrivals. Otherwise, be there by 12:00 and plan to stay until about 5:00 p.m. If we don't get enough help, we will have to return on April 25 to finish up.

Don't forget the Auction on May 2 and the Show on May 3. Come and Support your club and bring a friend or someone who has never been to a show before.

4/10/92 - Mom and Dad's 55th wedding anniversary; they were married at the Homestead in the front room.

Mom: "We had every kind of weather imaginable on our wedding day -

it rained, it snowed, the sun came out." Dad: "I worked for her father (Will Russell) for 6 weeks before we were married & he didn't pay me a cent for it.

We had to borrow money from my mother to go on our honeymoon <sup>to Wash. D.C.</sup>."

Mom went to the dentist yesterday and had her teeth cleaned;

she had a permanent wave installed in her hair also - getting all slicked up for the big day, today.

Dad bought a pink azalea yesterday for the center of the kitchen table.
The family will go out to dinner tonight. Dad began making the arrangements this morning —
he asked me, if I would be home & available to go out to dinner tonight. I wonder if Cousin Peg will be asked? Very probably. As a rule, I strongly dislike such we'll-all-go-out-to-dinner plans, but I will grin and bear it. Possibly the move will be to go to the Chinese Restaurant in Honedale? That would be good.

attended a meeting of the Administrative<sup>3.</sup> Board of the Berean Baptist Church last night: 7PM — 1040P.M! A
"witch hunt" is currently underway.
Gordon Wilson is without fault or blame but he will be the victim of the whole mess.

An alleged financial problem in the Church has caused the "guiding lights" of the Board to lower the pastor's salary by about $3,000. The pastor is very wounded by the insult and no amount of re-stored salary/benefits can correct the problem. The Wilsons will have to leave because they 50/4

Can not recover from the insult.

The primary villain in the attack
are: Lynn De Prato, Judy Balsavage, Donald Thomas, Donald Seigle I & II, Fred Walker, a Mr. & Mrs. Frank Kelly — among others. It's all very ugly.

Second-rate, mediocre nothing (the 8 above named) are whipping the wrong horse, so to speak.
They are taking out their personal money problem on the Pastor. They are jealous of the fact that Gordon Wilson's salary and benefits are better than theirs and they are out for vengeance / revenge. a real crisis is underway at the Ocean Baptist Church. My inclination is to resign at once from the administrative Board but I will not. I will stay on & be a thorn in their side. I was the only one who spoke out on behalf of the Wilsons at the meeting. As one knows older, one knows better and better how General Custer must have felt confronting all those Indians.

Who's life is this anyhow? It's mine and I will take charge thereof. After months of wondering and waiting about whether or not my two articles would be published in Poultry Press, I wrote a to-the-point letter to Bill Wulff on March 31st and put the question to him directly. He replied in a post card that I just now received as follows:

"Dear Robert,

The articles are long but they will be in as soon as I can. I try to get them on two facing pages. I hate to go to another page to finish reading. The articles are great. Keep sending them. I'll get them in. The April issue was only 32 pages and they fill up fast. May is laid out for 40 pages, so we'll see.

Best to you,
Bill"

That's grand. I can hardly wait.

Also, I have finally arranged to get all the vital statistics records that Skip Race has in his collection: Kitty Campbell's records. I wrote Skip a week or two ago and we have been missing each other on the telephone for about a week now. Finally this morning we made contact and I will meet him at 11:30 A.M. at City Hall tomorrow and he will deliver about seven boxes of birth and death records to me for the Historical Society. I called Rita Scott and reported the good news and she was ecstatic. "It's a miracle," said she. I am very pleased.

Last night the whole family went out to dinner to celebrate Mom and Dad's 55th wedding anniversary. Cousin Peg was with the four of us. We went to Woodlock Pines, which Dad loves. We all rode in the family car, with Dad at the wheel. 7 P.M. dinner reservations. Nice big dining room. Reminded me of a shipboard dining room: very large and wide and spacious and open. Lots of New York area families on weekends in the Poconos. Good food: shrimp and baked ham and seafood bisque and broccoli and corn and desserts. An ice cream cake was brought in with candles on it and the room full of people sang "congratulations to you..." to Mom and Dad on their 55th anniversary. Mom and Dad had a splendid time, and that was wonderful. Naturally, we all over-ate. No other couple in the Powell/Russell family has ever reached the 55-year wedding anniversary mark. Thankfully, Mom and Dad are both in good health and all is well. We were home by about 9:30 P.M., I think, and everyone went about his business. The anniversary day was appropriately and pleasantly commemorated.

I am very pleased with the POULTRY PRESS news about my two articles. That is just the "push" I need to put the final touches on the two articles that I have here on my desk in virtually ready-to-go form.

The four fertile standard eggs under the Silver-Laced Wayndotte hen are now hatching, right on schedule. After lunch I will go up to the barn for a session in the hen-house: cleaning and organizing. I would not be at all surprised to discover that at least one of the eggs has hatched. I am hoping for a couple of Black Orpingtons but will not be at all disappointed by Partridge Rocks and White Wyandottes. I'll be very pleased with whatever hatches.

There are six "standard" and three "bantam" eggs in the incubator that I will transfer to setting hens up in the barn this afternoon. They are all due to hatch on 4/19, and I am anxious to have them hatch out under the hens, which are much better at hatching out chicks than any incubator.

Posted 4/7/92

Dear Robert,

THE ARTICLES ARE LONG BUT THEY WILL BE IN
AS SOON AS I CAN. I TRY TO GET THEM ON
TWO PAGING PAGES. I HATE TO GO TO ANOTHER PAGE

TO FINISH REMAINING. THE ARTICLES ARE GREAT. KEEP

SENDING THEM, I'LL GET THEM IN THE APRIL ISSUE

WAS ONLY 32 PAGES AND THEY FILLED FIRST. MAY IS

LAUNDRY FOR 40 PAGES, SO WILL SEE. OK

BEST TO YOU
BUB

Dear Dr. Powell:

Thank you for your application for the position of Assistant Professor of French. Although your experience and credentials are impressive, we have identified a candidate who more completely meets the needs of the College.

Thank you for considering Marist College as your employer and my best wishes for success in your future career endeavors.

Sincerely,

04-17-1992, 6:30 P.M.

Good Friday. The day one is supposed to plant Garden Peas if one wants to have them ready for the Fourth of July. Drove to Montrose to Craige's Photographic Studio and ordered prints of the best of the five photos of me that were taken on Saturday, April 4th at 4 P.M. One print (wallet-sized) will appear in the 1992 Harford Fair Premium List in the Poultry section where SRP will serve as an Assistant Superintendent. The others will be for my personal use: 4 color wallet sized, 4 black and white wallet sized, 1 4X5 color, 1 4X5 black and white. Also, I purchased the print of the best of the five poses that was sent to me in the mail for approval. All of these prints will be from the same negative in which SRP, according to Mom, appears "very professorial." It's a good photograph and I am pleased with the way it appears. One of the things that I plan to do with some of these black and white prints is to use them for my "official" photo when (possibly after this show season) I am named a "Master Exhibitor" by the APA and my photo will appear in the APA Yearbook on a page devoted to SRP. It may not happen this year that I accumulate enough points to be named a "Master Exhibitor" but, it seems fairly certain, it will happen in the next couple of years and I want to be ready with a good black and white photograph when the time comes. The fact that I will be a couple of years older (possibly) when I am so named will not matter as far as the photograph is concerned. This will be one of those photographs for posterity as it will be published in a nationally distributed volume--the APA Yearbook. I will also use one of the black and white prints to have produced an SRP page in a forthcoming FTA BULLETIN: here is SRP (FTA Secretary and BULLETIN Editor) and his loft, etc.

The hatching season for SRP and his flock is drawing to an end. I filled the incubator and set two hens today and this will be the last time (I hope) for the season. There are 42 eggs in the incubator, about a dozen under the standard White Wyandotte and four under an American Game Bantam. In a week or so, I will consolidate all fertile eggs under the two hens. With any luck, I will get a good setting of fertile eggs for both hens and at that point I will shut off the incubator. Two American Game Bantams are due to hatch on Sunday the 19th and so by tomorrow I should see some signs of hatching. The two hens have between them six fertile standard eggs and three American Game Bantam eggs. I am most anxious about the standard eggs and can hardly wait to see what emerges. I will be very pleased with whatever comes forth but I am secretly hoping for several Black Orpingtons. We shall see.

On my way back from Montrose this noon I stopped to Cecil and Mary Rose. Mary was just about to go for a walk but was changing her mind at the front door when I arrived. The rain caused her to change her mind and she happened to be at the door when I pulled in. Cecil was in his chair by the window, from which he did not move during my entire visit: about 2 1/2 hours. We all enjoyed the visit very much and talked non-stop about poultry, gardens, and national politics, and the Harford Fair. Cecil will be 93 on Monday the 27th of April and he is in excellent health. I noticed that his right foot is swollen like Edith Gardner's was. It must be a common condition for senior citizens. He never mentioned it and I didn't either although it was very visible. It seems strange not to see chickens running around the Rose property. Cecil misses having them, I'm sure, but it simply can not be. It is too much to ask to expect Mary to take care of them for Cecil in the numbers that he had them: hundreds.

When DWP I and II get home, we will have an egg-coloring session. I have a couple dozen eggs hard boiled and all set to go. We had a grand time coloring eggs last year and, I think, the year before that. DWP II is the perfect age for it this year.

Dear Mary:

Thanks for the announcement of the upcoming Spring Consignment Auction on May 9th. I've got the date marked on my calendar and hope to be there.

I've got a question about trios and possibly you can help me answer the question. I'm not exactly sure what a "Trio Classic" is. In the TTPC Bantam "Trio Classic" last Fall, I had Best Rose Comb Clean Legged Trio and Champion Trio on a trio of Black Belgian Bantams.

Is Champion Trio in a Bantam "Trio Classic" the same as Champion Bantam Trio of a show? The reason I ask the question is that I received the official APA letter on my TTPC wins in last Fall's show in today's mail and there is no mention of Champion Trio in the APA letter.

There were, as I recall, at least 10 trios entered in the Bantam "Trio Classic". If Champion Trio in a Bantam "Trio Classic" is the same thing as having Champion Bantam Trio of a show (in which at least 10 trios were shown), then, as I understand it, the APA should award me the Master Exhibitor points on the win in last Fall's TTPC show on the Black Belgian bantams.

Any help you can provide in clarifying this point for me would be greatly appreciated.

I'm still sailing fairly high from my wins at the TTPC show last Fall and, as always, look forward to showing my birds at Bath on September 13th.

Sincerely,

Robert

Dear Sam,

Thanks for your letter of 4/21/92.

No, I do not have a trio of Silver Sebrights for sale at the present time.

I cull fairly close and right now I only have my breeders and a few show birds.

Someone will probably have some Silver Sebrights for sale at the CPAC auction on May 2nd.

Sincerely,

Robert Powell

Professor Amie G. Tannenbaum, Chairperson Department of French Gettysburg College
Gettysburg, PA 17325

Dear Professor Tannenbaum:

I would like to present my candidacy for the eighteen-month full-time sabbatical leave replacement position at Gettysburg College, beginning with the spring semester 1993. A copy of my current résumé is enclosed. The names and addresses and telephone numbers of three references are given at the bottom of page 2 of my résumé. My complete placement credentials, in which are included several recent letters of recommendation, are on file at the Career Development and Placement Service at Penn State and, at your request, I shall be pleased to have a copy sent to you for your examination and review.

During the academic year 1990-1991, I served as a Visiting Assistant Professor of French in the Department of Modern Languages at Susquehanna University. During the spring semester, I taught three courses: beginning French, advanced French composition and conversation, and nineteenth-century French literature. The nineteenth-century French literature course was among the most gratifying and rewarding teaching experiences of my professional career. That course, essentially a survey course of nineteenth-century literature, served as a starting point for many very stimulating classroom discussions of aesthetics and the interrelationships of literature, music, art and architecture. At the same time, I enjoy teaching the beginning language courses a great deal. It is, I believe, always a pleasure to plant the seeds of language learning and to watch and to listen to them grow in front of your eyes and ears.

Together with Dr. Jack Kolbert, the Chair of the Department of Modern Languages at Susquehanna University, I was directly involved in the many activities of the Department in the following ways:

- participated in meetings on the use of placement and proficiency exams;
- administered comprehensive exams to graduating seniors to certify them as graduates in French;
- served as faculty advisor to the French Club;

524
April 17, 1992

Professor A. G. Tannenbaum

- led a group of students from the French Club on a bus trip to New York City to view the Fauve Show at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, to have dinner in a French restaurant, and to attend a performance of Les Femmes Savantes;
- participated in the initiation ceremonies of Pi Delta Phi (National French Honor Society) and Phi Sigma Iota (National Romance Language Honor Society);
- served as the faculty representative in French to the weekly "French Language Table" in the student dining hall.

During my very busy and immensely rewarding term of service at Susquehanna University, Professor Kolbert observed me teaching and a letter of recommendation from Professor Kolbert is included in my placement credentials. In that letter, Professor Kolbert reports not only on the quality of my teaching but also on the strength of my commitment to and enthusiasm for undergraduate education.

In the fall of 1991, I accepted an appointment as an adjunct member of the faculty at Penn State (Worthington Scranton Campus) to teach Humanities. To have been given the opportunity to teach undergraduate courses in the Humanities, which I have long wanted to do, has had an extraordinary tonic-like effect on my critical thinking. At the same time, it presents exciting new challenges to familiar pedagogical methods because I am, as it were, teaching outside of my field of specialization. In the course of the academic year, my students and I, with shirt sleeves rolled up to the elbows, have probed the heights and depths of the Bible, Plato, Aristotle, Virgil, Dante, Shakespeare, Camus, Sartre, and others. It is a wonderful experience for me and a good workout for the students, all of whom agree, at the end of the semester, that the journey has been worthwhile. I am scheduled to teach Humanities at Penn State during the summer session which ends on July 20th.

I look forward to hearing from you in regard to the eighteen-month sabbatical leave replacement position at Gettysburg College, beginning with the spring semester, January 1993.

Sincerely yours,

S. Robert Powell

Dear Mr. Osborne:

It was nice talking with you on the phone this afternoon about Flying Tiplers. Enclosed are three recent FTA Bulletins (8-1-91, 12-27-91, 4-1-92) as well as a sheet showing various strains of Flying Tiplers and an FTA membership information sheet. We would be pleased to have you join us in the FTA.

A complete membership list for the FTA will be published in the next FTA BULLETIN. In the meantime, I have scanned the membership list and came up with the names of some FTA members who, I think, live closer to you than I do. I have no idea if any of these guys have birds for sale or not. It would not surprise me if at least one of them has birds for sale. Here are their names:

--Robert Culley, Foggintown Road, Brewster, NY 10509
Phone: 914-279-2542

--Dennis Lyons, 4265 Webster Avenue, Bronx, NY 10470

--Anton van Dalen, 166 Avenue A, New York, NY 10009

Also, one of the leading breeders and flyers of Tiplers in America lives in Keyport, NJ. He is:

--Stanley Ogozalek, 23 Orchard Street, Keyport, NJ 07735

(Stanley Ogozalek frequently has birds for sale. He may have some birds for sale at present. If you could arrange to visit with Stanley at his loft, you will learn more in a couple hours than you could learn from all the information in print on Tiplers.)

If I can be of any additional help, just let me know and I will be glad to do what I can.

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell

April 20, 1992

Mr. Forrest Beauford
Route 5, Box 75
Claremore, OK 74017

Dear Mr. Beauford:

When I received the April 1992 issue of POULTRY PRESS, the first thing that I did was to look for the results of the APA election. I was very disheartened to learn that you were not elected Vice President. The membership of the APA made a big mistake when they failed to elect the best candidate (Forrest Beauford) for Vice President.

As I said to you at Columbus in November, I especially like your idea of establishing a national office for the APA and hiring a professionally qualified staff. The entire organization could be transformed if we had such a staff. Other national livestock organizations have national offices and the successes of those other organizations should be enough to convince the membership of the APA that that is the direction in which we should be headed.

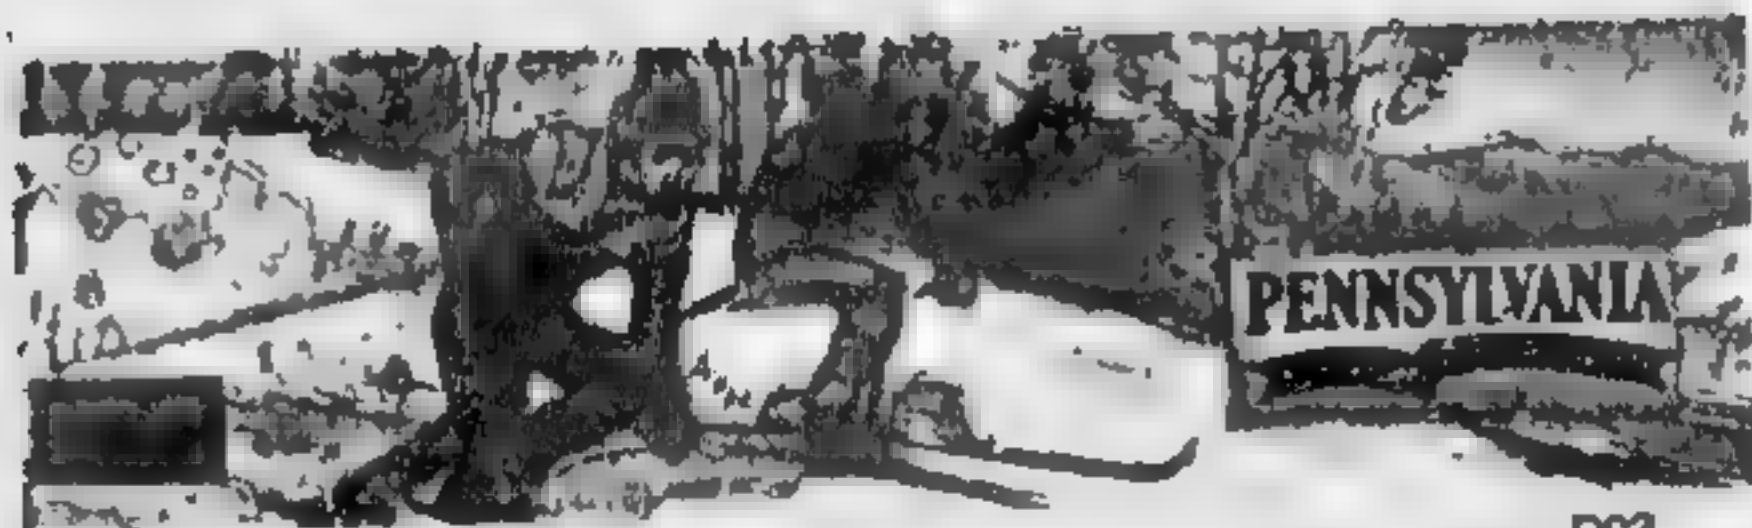

It's been a difficult, but successful, breeding season. I had a predator attack in early Winter and lost many of my best breeding hens. Fertility was another problem. I don't think that I have ever had to work as hard to get fertile eggs from my standards: Black Orpingtons, Partridge Rocks, White Wyandottes. But now I have just about all the chicks that I want to hatch and should have enough young birds to be able to pick out a few "champions" for the Fall and Winter shows. Time will tell.

I showed some birds at the Berks Poultry Fanciers' Show in Reading (PA) on March 29th and had Champion Continental on a Golden Campine hen. I have some standard BB Red Games and a hen that I showed at Berks won Best of Variety over 15 other standard BB Red Games. It was a small victory but one that means a great deal to me because my hen was up against some major league Game breeders' birds. It's pleasant to be "the new kid on the block," so to speak, and to win in competition against the "old guard." The Sussex (NJ) show is this coming weekend and I will show about a dozen birds. I have a standard Barred Rock pullet that is (I think) very beautiful and I am hoping that she catches the judges' eyes. We shall see.

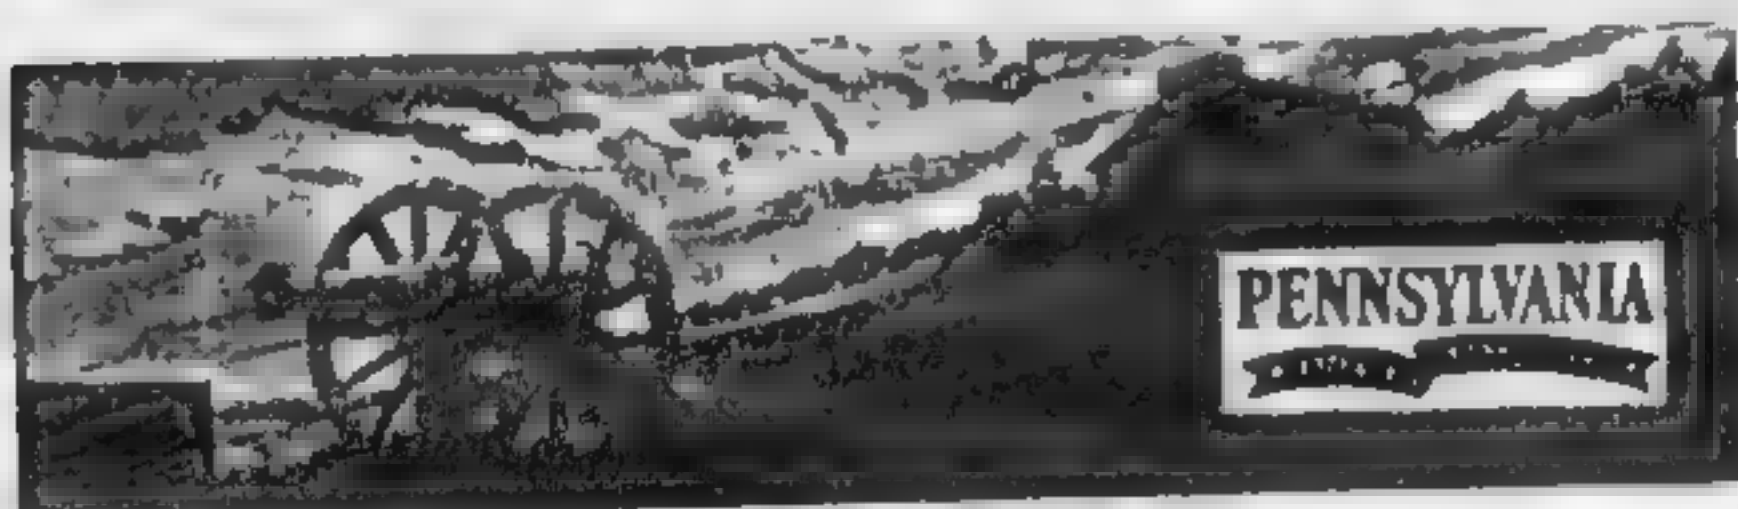

I don't think I have ever done anything that gives me as much pleasure as does raising and showing poultry.

Sincerely,

Robert Powell

as a judge Clyde Weaver is prejudiced against large fowl, especially the very large birds.
and yet he judged all the standards at Jersey! What a joke.

— Wyoming, RI

Don Nelson clerked for Weaver & was very involved in the decision making process. Don Nelson's S. C. Rhode Island <sup>Red</sup> Rooster was named Reserve Champions American & Reserve Champions Standard of the show. It looks very "fishy" when a clerk "judges" his own birds. The "appearance of evil" is no less damning than "evil in fact." What can you do about it? If I open my mouth and complain, I will be put on the judges' "hit list" and my birds will be "punished" by "get even" judges. It's a no-win situation. Perhaps I can incorporate this present

"irritation" into an article.

Once again you have done it. You have put out an outstanding Bulletin, one that I enjoy reading over and over again, and I'm sure that holds true for all of our members. I can see by the writing in the Bulletin that you really enjoy putting it together.

Today is a fly day, but, unfortunately, I have no old birds to fly, having lost most of my fly team in an overfly in January. I have 4 birds nesting now, and I am starting all over. This time I am going to do it correctly. I have purchased two White Russian Tumblers to be used as Droppers, and I am going to train my youngsters properly. (I hope.)

Incidentally, Robert, some of those GET TO KNOW Forms are from our newest members, which is a good sign. Let's hope it continues.

That's it for now; I have been typing all afternoon. I must get a new Typewriter as this one makes too many mistakes. (?)

CARBONDALE PUBLIC LIBRARY
Board of Directors meeting
March 17, 1992

The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Public Library took place on March 17, 1992, in the Board room on the second floor of the Library building on Sixth Avenue. The meeting was called to order by President Martin Langan at 7:33 P.M. Present were: Aubrey Staple, Ruth Miley, Anne Muldoon, Bob Vandenberg, Kathryn Race, Donald Mancuso, Kathy Clause, Martin Langan, Joseph Pascoe, Attorney Bernard Brown, and S. Robert Powell. The minutes of the February 18, 1992 meeting were read by the Recording Secretary, S. R. Powell. It was moved (Mancuso) and seconded (Race) that the minutes be approved as read and placed on file. The motion carried. Aubrey Staple read the Treasurer's Report for February. It was moved (Miley) and seconded (Pascoe) that the Treasurer's Report be approved as read and placed on file. The motion carried.

CORRESPONDENCE AND COMMUNICATIONS.

William Kaufman wrote to the Board on 02-25-92 and apologized for not being able to attend more meetings of the Board than he has in recent months and asked that the Board accept his resignation therefrom. His resignation was accepted with regrets.

A memo, dated 03-13-1992, from Sally T. Felix to the Carbondale Board of Directors was read by Martin Langan. In that memo Ms. Felix announced that all libraries in the County system would remain open for business as usual on March 31, 1992, the day that the PLA requested that all libraries close to protest the cuts in state aid.

A second memo from Sally T. Felix, dated 03-13-1992, was read. In this memo it was announced that the 1992 allocation to the Carbondale Public Library from the County will be $87,480 (the Carbondale Library requested $91,776). The budget of the CPL for 1992 is to be revised in terms of the actual County appropriation and a copy of the revised budget is to be sent to the County by March 30, 1992.

President M. Langan reported that Attorney James Walker has been officially thanked for his help in preparing the Board's presentation on the zoning variance request before the Carbondale Zoning Board on February 5, 1992.

LIBRARY DIRECTOR'S REPORT.

Anne Muldoon reported that circulation is up by 16%.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Donald Mancuso asked about liability insurance for members of the CPL Board of Directors. It was reported that the members of the Board are covered by the basic "errors and omissions" policy under Pennsylvania law for members of boards of directors of non-profit organizations. Donald Mancuso recommended that we find out about specific additional coverage for members of the Carbondale Board of Directors from a local insurance company.

President ML spoke in the capital fund drive that the CPL will have to mount if it is to raise $100,000 in an eight- to ten-month period. Attorney Brown: "We have to test the water and see what happens." Kathryn Race: "We'll never know unless we try." Donald Mancuso: "It's easier to get say $300 over a period of several years than it is to get $1,000 or more all at once." Martin Langan: "It's feasible. We can do it."

ML: "We need well known and respected members of the community to get involved." ML noted that we will need a training division ("We all have to learn how to go about asking for money.") a publications division, a mailing and correspondence committee. Attorney Brown made the point that we have to go after some "big gifts" first and establish a financial base; also that we have to make it known that we are carrying out a capital fund drive and not a fund drive for operating funds. Bob Vandenberg made the point that we have to make it known that we are going about erecting a new building because the present building is not large enough and because the Department of Labor and Industry wants us to get out of the present building. Attorney Brown: "We have to make it known that if we want to have a library in Carbondale that we must have a new building. This is not a luxury project. It is a project to do what has to be done to maintain a public library in Carbondale."

Donald Mancuso remarked that he would provide the Board with a list of the organizations and their officers in Carbondale. Ruth Miley said that she would get a list of organizations also. Robert Powell remarked that the Chamber of Commerce mailing list would be very helpful.

Marty Langan remarked that all money raised would be placed in a bank account and returned to donors in the event that the capital fund drive and the proposed new library were not successfully accomplished.

ML reported that test borings (three at 25 feet and one at 75 feet) were started today (March 17th) and that after the test borings are complete, the owners of the building on the proposed Library site on River Street will have 30 days to remove the building from the site. The question to be answered by the test borings is this: Is the land in question stable? Has there been undermining on the site?

Robert Powell suggested that all members of the Board prepare a list of about 20 persons or organizations that should be contacted initially in the capital fund drive. Each Board member would present his or her list at the April meeting of the Board.

Hank Loftus was unable to attend the meeting and sent a letter to President Langan in which he recommended that: (1) the CPL hold several small fund-raising projects in the course of the year; (2) two special bingos be held, each of which might yield $1,500; (3) the CPL have a "Big Six" stand at the 1992 Carbondale Pioneer Days; (4) the CPL conduct a raffle; and (5) the CPL sponsor a "cow pie" bingo.

Ruth Miley said that she would contact all Carbondale clubs. Donald Mancuso said that he would do all necessary bookkeeping for the project. Donald Mancuso also remarked that we also have to actively solicit donations from the people who actually use the CPL. Bob Vandenberg and Robert Powell will work on publications and a brochure explaining the project. Kathryn Race suggested that the CPL have produced commemorative items such as note cards and possibly a commemorative chair.

Anne Muldoon reported that the CPL had sent the new library in Clarks Summit a bouquet of flowers and that the flowers had been well received.

With all business conducted, the March 17, 1992 meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Public Library was adjourned at 9:05 P.M.

Respectfully submitted,
S. Robert Powell
Recording Secretary

(Following adjournment, Kathryn Race reported that she had recently been on Saint John's Island in the Virgin Islands and that she took a photograph of the library there, in which there are 100,000 volumes.)

4/30/92 - Forest City High School - after 20 days of not being here. It's almost 11 A.M. and I still can't seem to wake up. Very tiring day yesterday; my second day of energetic "yard work" in recent days. Picked up four giant trailer loads of branches and limbs that were down as a result of winter storms. A week or two ago, I picked up five (?) loads of branches and limbs. Now the primary yard areas at the Homestead are clean and neat and Dad has cut them all with the fairway mower. The flower garden in the front yard has also been cleaned up and the lawn strips between the individual beds have all been cut. The property is in perfect condition and will get more and more beautiful as spring advances.

The Chick hatching season is now largely over and the main thrust of my energy is focused on raising the rapidly growing young birds. An American Game bantam hen is hatching two eggs today (she only has the two eggs): one Black orpington is already out and dry; the other egg will probably be hatched when I return home at 330 P.M. today. The egg was initially pipped this morning when I fed and watered the birds. It would be nice if the 2nd chick is a Partridge Plymouth Rock, although I will be very pleased with another standard Black orpington or White Wyandotte. With any luck at all I will have quite a number of excellent young birds for the Fall and winter shows. The Rhode Island Red young birds are beautiful and will be 7-1/2 months old at the end of September, which means that the pullets will be laying and very beautiful. It will take longer for the cockerels to finish off, of course.

The Tennessee Chickens will be about 6 months old at the end of September and some of them will doubtless enter the show circuit this Fall and Winter; the chicks from Duane Mch (standard Modern Game & Barred Rocks and Golden Campfires) will be  $8\frac{1}{2}$  months old at the end of September and will be in fine show condition by that time. An exact inventory of my poultry house would be very interesting to have. My guess is that I have about 125 birds at present, although I may be a little low in my guess.

Summer session at PSU: Dunmore will begin on 5/28 and I will
